Thousands of Students Start Summer Vacations To-day

PASS LISTS OF CITY SCHOOLS ANNOUNCED

Approximately 6,000 Pupils in Victoria and Hundreds of Others in Surrounding Municipalities End Studies for Term; Honor Rolls and Prizes Presented At Closing Exercises; Teachers Will Also Enjoy Holidays as Much as Children, as They Have Had Many Extra Hours of Late.

With their school books tucked under their arms, thousands of happy young students this morning filed out of school doors to enjoy their summer vacation.

Approximately 6,000 children left their studies in the city, while many more in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt also brought the term to a close with the distribution of prizes and honor rolls and the announcement of pass lists.

In virtually all schools the children were assembled for the promotion announcements, and many proud young students received honor rolls. With these and any equipment which they had left, they marched triumphantly home to start the round of pleasures which will feature their holidays.

Teachers, too, who have been putting in extra hours on promotion lists and examination papers, have finally cleared up their work and commenced their vacations with as great enthusiasm as their pupils.

CLOSING EXERCISES

Although some schools terminated their activities with concerts this morning, the majority held their entertainments earlier in the week.

At Margaret Jenkins, announcement of successful students was made this morning. The entire student body gathered in the assembly hall, where piano solos by Jean Hyslop and Mary Dickson, vocal selections by Douglas Firth and choral numbers by the different grades added greatly to the success of the closing exercises. During the morning John Kyle, director of technical education, addressed the children. Joyce Scourah, performing dances, and Lucy Shaw with a recitation, also contributed enjoyable numbers to the programme.

Similar exercises were held in several other schools throughout the city and surrounding municipalities as the term drew to a close.

High School entrance and junior matriculation examination results will be issued later by the Department of Education.

Grade school promotion lists follow:

SEARCH FOR FRANCO PLANE NOW ENDED

Madrid, June 28.—The Spanish Government considers it has done everything in its power to locate the missing plane and its three companions, who disappeared last Saturday on a transatlantic flight venture.

Therefore, a public statement by the Ministry of Marine said further search had been abandoned as practically useless.

BOARDS OF TRADE OF CENTRAL B.C. CALL FOR IMPROVEMENTS

Prince Rupert, June 28.—Eleven of the twelve resolutions before the convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Central British Columbia here were passed some without discussion and others after considerable debate. One, introduced by the Prince George Board of Trade, asking for the completion of the P.G.E. Railway to Prince George and its extension into the Peace River country was referred back to the resolutions committee for re-drafting when it was found opposition to it was developing.

The resolutions passed asked for "Completion of the highway between Prince Rupert and Terrace and between Terrace and Hazelton, making of Prince Rupert the sea outlet for the Peace River country; industrial development of the Telkwa-Copper River-Kimlat area; aid in boring wells in the interior districts, particularly in the Metchika Valley; a progressive land settlement policy for the interior valleys; construction of a highway connecting the Peace River district with the rest of the highway system of British Columbia; more mining trails as an aid in the development of the mineral wealth of the Province; construction of a telephone line between Prince George and Vanderhoof; aids to navigation to make possible wider use of Hecate Strait by vessels trading into Prince Rupert, and an inquiry by a committee on the treatment of Central British Columbia by the southern part of the Province.

NEW B.C. COMMERCE COURSE OUTLINED

Vancouver, June 28.—A comprehensive and practical curriculum for the recently authorized department of commerce at the University of British Columbia was announced to-day by President L. S. Killick.

The new courses will be: Accountancy, statistics, economics of transportation and industrial geography, and commercial law.

POLICE FIND BANK BANDIT WAS FARMER

Man Who Murdered Hamilton Detective Was Killed By Detective in Battle

Hamilton, Ont., June 28.—Police to-day identified the bank bandit who yesterday killed Detective Clark here and was himself shot to death. He was Charles B. Long, a farmer who had resided in the vicinity of Burlington, near Hamilton. His abandoned truck, left on a street near the East End branch of the Province of Ontario Savings Bank, which he robbed, gave the authorities the clue which led to identification.

Long was far from a bandit type. The authorities found it was a formerly peaceable farmer who suddenly turned gunman and performed a deed which for sheer desperation outdid anything in the history of such armed robberies in this.

Yesterday morning Long was a quiet farmer, working his twenty-acre truck garden outside Burlington, and living in good repute with his neighbors. By evening his body lay in the morgue riddled with bullets, and he went down on the records as having caused the death of a young police officer.

His financial difficulties by armed robbery had wrought his tragic downfall. Police believe it was the pressure of money needs that impelled him to play the spectacular crime.

The $1,500 taken by Long from the bank was recovered.

Five-nation Conference On Navies Urged

Washington, June 28.—Washington's plans for machinery to help lift the burden of naval armaments from the world daily takes clearer form. It is now suggested a conference of five nations—Great Britain, the United States, Japan, France and Italy—may be held in London this summer for the purpose of reaching an agreement upon the political questions concerned in naval reduction. At such a conference statesmen would consider what the scope of reduction should be, possibly what nature of naval arms would be affected such as battleships, aircraft carriers, submarines, destroyers and cruisers, or simply cruisers, those craft so essential which proved the controversial issue in the failure of the Geneva tripartite conference in 1927.

With the exception of the Rhine land where an interdiction of the Allied Rhineland Commission interfered, there were demonstrations or protest the length and breadth of the nation.

The Nationalist opposition, strengthened probably by the manifestation, acted so in the Reichstag yesterday that it prevented prolongation of the law for defence of the republic as proposed by the Government. The defeat will make it legal for former Kaiser Wilhelm to return to Germany at the expiration of the present act, July 22, though there is no suggestion he will do so.

BORDERS OF CHAINS

German newspapers with borders of heavy black mourning and one Berlin organ, Der Tag, surrounded scenes from Danzig, Posen, Katowitz and Strassburg with borders of chains. A great sign in the west end of Berlin adjoined German citizens to unite in repudiation of the "war guilt lie."

There is hope the arbitrators, assisted by counsel for each country, and presumably reviewing the entire circumstances of the sinking of the Canadian schooner by a United States coastguard vessel in the Gulf of Mexico, will be able to arrive at some conclusion at least upon points of law involved.

CONVICTION APPEALED

Toronto, June 28.—Harry E. Harcourt of Toronto, formerly managing director of the Jackson-Manion Mines Ltd., filed an appeal at Osgoode Hall to-day against the conviction by Judge O'Connell on June 26 which found him guilty of unlawfully circulating or publishing false statements in connection with the sale of stock in the Jackson-Manion Mines Company.

AUSTRALIAN PLANE TO-DAY AT SINGAPORE ON WAY TO BRITAIN

Singapore, June 28.—Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions arrived here to-day in their monoplane, the Southern Cross, from Derby, on the northwestern coast of Australia, en route to England. They had covered a distance of about 1,600 miles.

The fliers set out from Sydney, N.S.W., Tuesday morning in an effort to break the fifteen-day record of Bert Hinkler between England and Australia.

B.C. Farmers' Board Is Deciding Relations With Minister of Agriculture

Vancouver, June 28.—Members of the advisory board of the Farmers' Institutes of British Columbia are in session in Vancouver to-day, prepared to settle with Hon. W. Atkinson the controversy as to whether they are to control their own affairs or have the board run by the Minister of Agriculture.

James Bailey, president, and C. E. Whitney-Griffiths, secretary, resigned shortly after the recent session of the Legislature as a protest against political interference by the Minister. Neither attended to-day's meeting in the courthouse here.

This morning's session was given over to discussion of Game Board matters and the question of bounties on cougars and coyotes. O. B. Appleton, of Procter, vice-chairman, is presiding at the meeting. E. Ross of Surrey Centre replaced James Bailey of Sardis on the board and R. D. Hurford of Courtenay replaced Mr. Whitney-Griffiths.

J. M. Munro, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, is attending the sessions here.

EXPULSED CLUB MEMBER SUES

Roger Berry Names Pensioners' Association in $1,000 Action

Also Asks Court to Restore Rights to Attend Meetings

One thousand dollars damages for alleged wrongful expulsion from the Victoria branch of the Canadian Pensioners' Association is claimed by A. R. Berry in a writ filed in the Supreme Court this morning.

Mr. Berry, who is better known in Victoria as Roger Berry, has been prominent in returned soldier circles in the city for many years. The writ names as defendants Sam D. Craig, E. Lister, P. E. Beevan, Malcolm C. McPhail, E. Rutherford and E. Jamieson, who are sued on their own behalf and on behalf of all other members of the association.

Plaintiff seeks a declaration that his expulsion as a member is void and that he is still a member. He asks for an injunction restraining defendants from excluding him from meetings and from exercising rights and privileges of membership. Damages of $1,000 for alleged irregular and wrongful expulsion, costs of the action and other relief are sought.

Jugoslavian Services Mark Anniversary Of Two Assassinations

Sarajevo, Jugoslavia, June 28.—Fifteen years ago to-day the spark that was fanned into the World War started here in the assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the throne of the dual kingdom of Austria-Hungary. To commemorate the event all sections of Jugoslavia participated in memorial services at the graves of the archduke and his wife, solemnly to free Serbian territory from the Austrian yoke.

SPOKANE MAN IS KILLED IN CRASH

Troy, Mont., June 28.—V. J. Beaton, Spokane mining man, was killed and Miss Edna Bissell of Troy was seriously injured to-day in an automobile accident on the Troy-Libby road, nine miles from here. Beaton, the secretary of the Snowstorm Mine here, was taking Miss Bissell, an employee, to her work at Libby and the car went over an embankment.

SAYS FEDERAL CABINET WATCHING U.S. TARIFF PLANS

Tara, Ont., June 28.—If changes are made in United States tariff which are found to be detrimental to the interests of Canada, alterations in the Canadian tariff structure to correct the situation unquestionably will be made.

This was the declaration of Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce, during an address he made here to-day. Canada, he said, had made, and would make, her own tariff structure to suit her own economic needs.

Mr. Malcolm's speech answered the efforts against the Government's tariff policy made by Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, in the course of his southern Ontario tour.

BENNETT'S NEW SITUATION

At the outset, Mr. Malcolm stated Mr. Bennett was "trying to create fear in the minds of the people of Ontario that the Government which has so successfully administered the affairs of Canada for eight years will not be able to meet a new situation he fears has arisen."

"No situation has arisen during the past eight years that has not been satisfactorily met," said Mr. Malcolm.

"Nor do I believe the people of Canada fear that should a change be made in the United States fiscal policy detrimental to Canadian interests, the Government is not prepared to meet it."

WATCHING EVENTS

"The Government of Canada is much more alive to the situation than is the leader of the Opposition, and is fully prepared in the interests of Canada to readjust its fiscal policy from time to time."

BIG NEW FOOD STORE MERGER PLANS REPORTED

Six Chains in Canada and U.S. Said to Be Included in Scheme

Toronto, June 28.—In an article on its financial page to-day, The Toronto Mail and Empire said:

More than mere gossip is apparently behind a suggestion emanating from New York that a linking up of the larger food merchandizing companies throughout the United States and Canada would be a desirable move.

"The suggestion is made for a preliminary consolidation of six chains in three divisions, American Chains-Stores and Kroger Grocery and Baking Company, and Dominion Stores Limited and Loblaw Groceries Limited forming the Canadian wing. This move would place three divisions in line for one great consolidation, operating more than 8,000 retail stores, having a combined gross total sales of half a billion dollars and with assets of nearly $425,000,000."

NEW DIRECTOR

Montreal, June 28.—Patrick Burns of Calgary has been elected a member of the board of the Dominion Bridge Company.

CONVENTION DELEGATES HOP FROM SEATTLE BY AEROPLANE

Enjoying the cool breezes of the upper air over the straits while their fellow delegates progressed slowly on shipboard, three of the delegates to the Northwest Electric Light and Power Association convention arrived here by air to-day.

They were Roy Ormond, pilot for the Line Material Company of Milwaukee, Wis.; S. P. Larsen, northwest sales representative for the company, and Audrey McGinty, Portland, Ore., delegate.

Ormond, Larsen and Miss McGinty were able to have a few extra winks of sleep this morning when other delegates boarded a special boat to Victoria at 7:45 a.m. in Seattle. Leaving shortly after 10 o'clock by plane, the trio arrived here nearly half an hour before the boat.

The plane, a Waco special, powered with a Wright Whirlwind motor, dropped into the Lansdowne Aerodrome at 11:25 a.m. with the three convention delegates aboard. They planned to leave on the return trip this afternoon.

The trip across, though slightly chilly, was made in good time, said Ormond, who is a flier of considerable experience, having served in the 148th Aero Squadron of the R.A.F. during the Great War. The Lansdowne landing field presented quite a problem to the pilot when he arrived over it, for hay had just been cut and was piled in stacks all over the field. By careful manoeuvring, he managed to pick out a narrow runway on which to land.

Atlantic City, New Jersey, where he attended a light and power convention. The plane is supplied by his company and he has visited many parts of the United States during the last year for the firm. He will leave the machine with Mr. Larsen at Portland.

Miss McGinty said she enjoyed the trip this morning immensely,

ELECTRICAL CONVENTION IS WELCOMED

Mayor Anscomb Speaks of Electrical Industry Before Northwest Association

Party Totalling 640 Guests Entertained on Arrival From Seattle By Special Boat

"There is no public utility to-day which is more necessary to our well-being and which affects the comfort and convenience of our daily lives as electricity," said Mayor Herbert Anscomb in welcoming to the city the members of the Northwest Electric Light and Power Association at luncheon in the Empress Hotel ballroom to-day.

The party, consisting of 640 delegates to the recent Seattle convention, reinforced by a delegation from the national conference of electrical men recently held in California, reached here at noon to-day aboard the steamer Princess Patricia from Seattle.

Formal welcome was extended to the party by A. T. Goward, vice-president of the B.C. Electric Railway Company, who also introduced Mayor Anscomb.

"Light, heat and power, three of the great necessities of the human race, are given to mankind through the genius of our electrical engineers in such an easy and sure way that we can hardly grasp the skill and patience which has built up this service for us," went on Mayor Anscomb.

JUNIOR LORDS OF TREASURY NAMED

London, June 28. (Canadian Press Cable)—William Whiteley, Labor, M.P. for Bladon, Durham, and Wilfrid Palling, Labor M.P. for Doncaster, Yorkshire, have been appointed Junior Lords of the Treasury, no salaries being attached to the offices.

Whiteley, who has represented Bladon since 1922, is one of the leaders of the Durham Miners' Association.

Palling, also a member of Parliament for the last seven years, was appointed a junior Lord whip early this year. He was formerly a miner and then a workman in a Yorkshire colliery.

From an elementary school he went to Balliol College, Oxford, through the activities of the Workers' Education Association.

B.C. TRADE BOARDS ELECT OFFICERS

Prince Rupert, June 28.—Olof Hanson was elected president of the Associated Boards of Trade of Central British Columbia at the concluding session here to-day. H. B. Guest, Prince George, was elected vice-president, and A. H. Brooks, bank, secretary. The associated boards will meet next year at Prince George.

RESCUES ARE MADE BY NANAIMO BOY

Nanaimo, June 28.—Little Joseph Frew, eleven, is Nanaimo's latest hero. Hearing screams for help as he walked along the Indian Reserve, he plunged into the water of the harbor with all his clothes on, swam to a diving raft and rescued Teddy Corlett, ten, from drowning.

Then the young lad placed his arm around Mrs. Corlett, who had slipped off the raft in an effort to get her son out of the water, and assisted her to safety.

Joseph, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frew, View Street, probably will be recommended for a Royal Humane Society Medal.

CHARM OF FANNY

BRICE BROUGHT TO SCREEN BY VITAPHONE

Fannie Brice is one of those persons who utterly defy description. One may resort to a debauch of adjectives in the attempt yet the elusive lady is still but faintly imagined. Fannie Brice must be seen to be appreciated—seen and heard as she is at the Capitol Theatre. Vitaphone seems even to add to the devastating quality of her mirth, to the appeal of her moments of pathos, and to the half-mournful cadences of her voice.

PISTOL SHOT ON SET FRIGHTENED MOVIE HORSES

All went smoothly during production of "The Scarlet Dove" when showing at the Playhouse, but when the Stahl studio and on location for snow scenes at Big Bear until the final half hour. Preparations were being made to shoot the last scene when the horses, attached to the sleigh containing Josephine Borio and Robert Fraser took fright at the sound of a pistol shot on another set and plunged wildly into the midst of the players working on the stage facing the exterior where Arthur Gregor was finishing "The Scarlet Dove."

ARTISTRY OF AL JOLSON UNIQUE IN NEW PICTURE

In his delightful reminiscences, Joseph Jefferson says that comedy is a serious business. Jefferson, one of the most lovable personalities, as well as one of the finest comedians that ever trod the American stage, was well qualified to dilate on his art. According to his belief, the true comedian is not the buffoon, but the man capable of bringing a tear to the eye as quickly and unexpectedly as he brings a broad smile to the face. There are few men who have come up to this demand. Al Jolson, now at the Dominion Theatre, is a second talking and singing special, "The Singing Fool," stands in the forefront of their meagre number.

LOVE AFFAIR OF REDSKIN MAIDEN PROVES HUMOROUS

As an Indian maid and her lover, Miss Ada Daniels and Leon Cluff provide a clean comedy in "Naomi of the North" the current stage attraction at the Coliseum Theatre, under the direction of Raymond Toby Letich. The clever company who have won so many admirers during their stay in Victoria have ample scope for their talents and have given enthusiastic reactions this week. The scenery is picturesque, the plot is gripping and the play is brightened by excellent comedy.

Magnesia Best for Your Indigestion

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestants

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discovered a disagreeable diet, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, and instead take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bismarck Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bismarck Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bismarck Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use. (Adv.)

DOGGING REED AND GORGAS

To the Editor—Miss Kitto in The Times of June 26 claims that I call a thing medieval when I do not like it. I called the "bad air" theory of malaria medieval because it is literally medieval in spirit as well, being based on faulty empiricism, not on controlled systematic experiment with scientific aids. Manson is quoted as saying that malaria is particularly bad among men engaged in canal-digging, etc., and that at first sight it is hard to see why. "At first sight"—note the words. Manson was evidently going on to tell why, when the lady's hand was hastily clapped over his mouth. He was going to say too much. Speaking of Manson, I seem to recollect that he followed with approval the work of Sir Ronald Ross which blew away the theory of the Hadwenites to bits. And yet they have the assurance to appeal to Manson. It is easy to see through the instance of malaria or the ships at impico in spite of screening etc. Any officer can tell with what gusto and ingenuity soldiers and sailors will neglect or break the "silly" precautions framed for their protection. Five minutes' heedlessness would be enough to introduce the disease. And was there shore leave or not? Were marines landed or not? The test means nothing if this be ignored. One Fitzgibbon with an array of ten letters after his name but none of them signifying any training in medicine, solemnly reiterates the poisonous gas fable, claiming that Egypt is mostly free from malaria because the ditches make the rise and fall of ground-water impossible, thereby preventing the expulsion of the bad air. What tosh! As if the rise of the Nile

Why do the Hadwenites not see the obvious implications of their theory and follow them out, make discoveries and confound their opponents? Every infectious disease is as distinct a species as the horse or the dog. How easy it should be to collect the gases, assign each to the specific disease it causes, find its chemical composition and also its antidote. But that would be scientific knowledge and therefore abhorrent to them. It might save human life and lead to the neglect of the white rats. Incidentally they might find why the imaginary poison behaves so differently from real poisons.

But the shining jewel of her letter is the paragraph dealing with Reed and Gorgas. Two-thirds of my former letter was on their work, and all this she absolutely ignores, except for one short sentence which refuted nothing. But in a wildly fanciful spirit she wants to pay the "highest tribute" to them and yet keep on fighting tooth and nail for the theory they demolished. Unsound argument and unfair tactics can no farther go.

Challenged to state how yellow fever originated in the first place, I say I know no more about it than Miss Kitto.

Of course, my rubber telephone pole propaganda was silly. It is only in comparison with the compound and complex ineptitudes that I was attacking that it was wisdom.

letters saying "We appeal the sum of $23,752 is needed." This, to my mind, is a mild way of begging. Needless to say this amount is required for the new cathedral. Now, then, if a properly conducted sweepstake was run here and say 20 to 25 per cent of the total deducted for this purpose, that $23,752 would be forthcoming in very short time. Why be so narrow about the thing? A sweepstake is the quickest method of raising money one can imagine. Let do away with this begging. We allow the horse races here and are permitted to gamble on them, so why not run sweepstakes for the benefit of charity and other good causes?

CANADA SOON TO HAVE NEW AIR MAIL SERVICES

Ottawa, June 28.—Air mail services will be inaugurated shortly between Montreal and Detroit, and between Toronto and Buffalo, which will further advance mail connections, not only between this country and the United States, but with cities in Ontario, such as Hamilton, London and Windsor, declared Hon. P. J. Veniot, Postmaster-General, speaking over the radio from Station CBR, Ottawa, last night.

The department hopes to inaugurate the prairie air mail services between Winnipeg, Regina, Moose Jaw and Calgary, and between Regina, Saskatoon, North Battleford and Edmonton some time during the coming autumn," said the minister. "The services will afford a twenty-four-hour saving in time in the movement of mails from terminus to terminus, and will give comparative advances to intermediate points."

TRANSCANADA SERVICE
"The objective at which we are aiming is, of course, a Transcanada route, and the services so far decided upon are merely a step toward that objective. In the course of a few years Canada's coast-to-coast air mail route may be in operation. This country occupies a strategic position which will enable the rapid movement of mails from Europe to the Far East to be made by air from Belle Isle to the British Columbia coast. Aside from the benefits that are to be had by the Canadian people, this international aspect is of the first importance."

TARIFF DEBATE IN U.S. SAD TO DELAY TREATY

Senator Walsh of Montana Expresses Views on St. Lawrence Scheme

Milwaukee, Wis., June 28.—Negotiations for a treaty with Canada which would make possible the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterway, are being seriously hampered by United States tariff duties, existing and proposed, according to Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat, Montana.

"The Canadians are sullen as a result of the demand for virtually prohibitive duties on everything imported from the Dominion," he said in an interview here last night. "They are so sullen they are unwilling even to talk about the Waterway Treaty, with the result that negotiations are now virtually suspended."

However, the Teapot Dome investigator said he believed a treaty would be signed eventually. "An effort to reopen negotiations will be made this fall," he said. Senator Walsh stated a treaty now before the Senate for its approval might be used as an entering wedge for this purpose. It seeks to preserve the beauty of Niagara by prevention of erosion, according to the Senator, but really is desired by Canada because it would permit the generation of power at the falls.

NEW OFFICERS FOR ALBERTA RAIL SYSTEM

Montreal, June 28.—At an organizational meeting of the Northern Alberta Railway Company yesterday the following officers were appointed: E. W. Beatty, president; Sir Henry Thornton, vice-president; J. Callahan, general manager; F. J. Kavanaugh, auditor; Henry Phillips, secretary. It was announced following the meeting that the organization had been completed and that D. Coleman, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific, and W. A. Kingsland, general manager of the Canadian National Railways, would, under the direction of the board, supervise the operations of the railway.

Scientist Studies Human Feet and Those of Great Ape Groups

Baltimore, Md., June 28.—A definite relationship in foot structure between man and apes has been found by Dr. W. L. Straus of Johns Hopkins University. He considers his findings to be a proof of a common origin of monkey and man.

The conclusions were reached after a five-year comparative investigation, in which the feet of man and other primates were studied. "Man is closely allied to the anthropoid ape group," he said, "as far as the study of the foot goes."

In the investigation the first entire study of a highland gorilla foot was made. No one denies the relationship between the gorilla and the orang, two of the great anthropoid apes, yet the gap in foot structure separating these two is fully as great as that separating man from the gorilla.

The highland gorilla foot, while much like that of the lowland species and always just a gorilla foot, shows certain tendencies toward the human type.

"The general plan of the muscles of the gorilla foot is that of the arboreal, or tree-living primates. In certain details, however, there is a definite convergence to the human foot."

Cause for the similarity may be laid to the fact that the gorillas forsook trees for terrestrial life and thus approached closer than other apes to the ways and habits of men, he said.

The gorilla foot studied belonged to an adult female brought back from Africa by the late Carl Akeley, which is the property of the American Museum of Natural History of New York.

Other scientists have studied foot skeletons, but Dr. Straus also has carried the research into the muscles as offering added light on the relationship of man and apes.

Geological Survey Issues Statement On B.C. Tin Deposit

Ottawa, June 28.—The Geological Survey has issued the following statement on tin discovery in B.C.:

"Considerable interest has been aroused by the discovery of stannite, tin-bearing mineral, in the Snowflake district of British Columbia. After making a brief examination of this property in company with the consulting engineer of the Snowflake Mining Company, Dr. V. Dolmage of the Geological Survey of Canada reports that the vein in which the stannite occurs is one of a number of large and persistent parallel quartz veins which can be traced for several miles along the steep mountain sides of this rugged district. It outcrops at elevations of 5,500 to 6,000 feet, six miles north of a point on the main line of the Canadian Pacific railway, twenty miles east of Revelstoke, and is reached by a good horse trail."

"The veins occur in black, highly carbonaceous, in places graphitic, argillites. These are part of a thick series of quartzites, greenstones, argillites and limestones which occupy almost this entire region and are part of a still larger group of metamorphosed rocks widely distributed in British Columbia and considered to be of pre-Cambrian age."

"These sediments are intruded by granite rocks two north of the tin deposit, and one eight miles to the south, and lit par lit injections of which lie within three miles or less of the deposit."

"The presence in the area of so many intrusions of closely related, granitic rocks, strongly suggests the probability of the presence of considerable depths of a very large body of similar rocks of which the smaller intrusions are mere appendages and which was probably the source of the solutions which deposited the tin and other metals."

The main veins are parallel to the bedding of the sediments and vary from three to fifteen feet in width. In all the veins the gangue mineral is quartz. The metallic minerals are pyrite, galena, stannite, zirconite, tetrahedrite, scheelite, wolframite, ruby silver (protargite), chalcopyrite and native silver. Chalcopyrite and native silver are present in only minute quantities and are visible only under the microscope. In the No. 4 vein on the Snowflake property stannite is present in almost all the exposed parts of the vein where other sulphides are present, and in the newest workings, extending from the long low-level tunnel, it is very abundant. In a raise, which at the time of the examination was up eighty feet from a drift east of the main tunnel, it is more abundant than any of the other sulphides except pyrite. The vein in the raise is from four to seven feet wide and in places it appears to contain as much as ten per cent. or more of stannite.

"At the time of the examination tin had not been discovered in any of the other veins of the district but since stannite is reported to have been found in other veins on the Snowflake and also on the adjoining Regal Silver property."

INCREASE IN EMPIRE TRADE GREAT GOAL OF KING GOVERNMENT

time to time to meet any changes that may be made in the tariff structure of the United States or of any country."

Referring to the demand of Mr. Bennett for an Empire trade conference, Mr. Malcolm stated that ever since the late Rt. Hon. W. S. Fielding had introduced the British preference it had been the liberal policy to increase trade within the Empire. How this had worked out was indicated by figures covering the last eight years.

"Our imports from British countries have increased from approximately $180,000,000 to $237,000,000, and our exports from $347,000,000 to $339,000,000," the speaker said.

TRADE WITH U.S.
The Minister of Trade and Commerce gave a brief summary indicating the volume and nature of Canada's trade with the United States. During the year 1928, he said, the Dominion had imported raw materials from the republic to the value of $220,000,000 and exported to the United States raw materials valued at $153,000,000. Consequently, if it was a sacrifice to sell unfinished products, Canada's sacrifice was less than that of the United States by $69,000,000. Canada's trade in manufactured products with the United States was large and the Minister admitted the balance stood against the Dominion. He asserted this figure was less marked than formerly. He quoted figures in support of this statement.

SALES ARE LARGE
"We sell $500,000,000 worth of goods to the United States a year and judging by past experience the value will not shrink materially no matter what the tariff fixers at Washington may do," continued Mr. Malcolm.

"In my opinion there are many articles of British manufacture which if known to the Canadian public, could be purchased by Canadian consumers to better advantage than the commodities which are now bought from the United States."

Mr. Malcolm challenged Mr. Bennett to come out and tell the country just what he proposed with respect to the tariff. A Conservative Government, he charged, had destroyed the tractor industry in Canada by placing those articles on the free list.

QUESTIONS FOR BENNETT
"Does Mr. Bennett propose to alter the decision of a former government and put on a duty on tractors?" asked Mr. Malcolm. "Does he propose to tell the agricultural industry, the mining industry and the fishing industry that if he is elected, in order to stop those imports from the United States, he will raise the duty on these implements of production?"

Let him be bold enough to be honest and frankly tell the producers of this country what his intentions are. Does he propose to place a duty on any or all of our imports of raw materials, so necessary to enable our factories to compete in the markets of the world? No, indeed, Mr. Bennett does not propose to tell the people of this country anything definite as to what he would do on any of these points. He simply rambles along in his speech uttering platitudes of what an ideal state he would create and condemn policies that have proved themselves sound and worthy."

A brick for brick tariff policy with the United States would not necessarily suit the Dominion, Mr. Malcolm said. There were commodities which Canada must buy in the cheapest market in order to compete with the world. Some of these must of necessity come from the United States.

HENRY FORD SELLS HIS RAILWAY AFTER MAKING IT PAY

Iron-ton Line Cost Him $5,000,000, But Returned Over $4,000,000 in One Year

Detroit, June 28.—Announcement of the sale of Henry Ford's Detroit, Toledo and Iron-ton Railroad to an undisclosed group of investors, marked the successful termination of a motor magnate's venture in the railroad field. Ford obtained the railroad in 1920, for a total investment of $5,000,000, after the line had struggled along for thirty years with many reverses. In 1924, it was disclosed, the railroad had earned $4,201,883 for its purchaser.

HANDSOME PROFITS
Ford's administration of the road was a series of successful innovations. At the outset, instead of inaugurating a policy of rigid economy, he increased expenditures for maintenance of way, equipment and wages, and made the dying railroad pay handsome profits.

Employees were not only paid wages above the usual union scale but were made actual partners in the undertaking. They were offered certificates in the railroad which by 1924 were paying an annual interest of twelve per cent.

The railroad moved manufactured products across nearly all the larger East and West trunk lines between Detroit and the Ohio River, and in addition tapped the coal fields of Southern Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky, thus assuring the Detroit plants an uninterrupted fuel supply. Electric engines were introduced and freight service speeded up. To-day the total mileage is approximately 529 miles.

PROTESTED VALUATION
In 1925 Ford started negotiations to combine the Detroit, Toledo and Iron-ton, into one operating unit. Permission was granted the latter road to issue $500,000 of capital stock, and $3,850,000 of first mortgage bonds to be used in the acquisition of railroad property of the Ford transportation Company, formerly of 1925 to make negotiations. The plan was proposed by the Ford interests after the interstate commerce commission had denied an application for an actual merger of the two railroads.

When in 1928 the commission placed a tentative valuation of $11,028,300 on the railroad, Ford protested through his attorneys, setting forth that the proper valuation to be used for rate making purposes and a "fair return" was $23,061,208.

ROMANTIC PROFESSION
"We often read of the romance of business, but surely we cannot imagine any more romantic profession than the harnessing of the forces of nature to the service of man and the creation of those mighty engineering works which are now found in every part of the globe, to give us at the turn of a switch or the press of a button, an invisible service—day and night—which is both mysterious and marvelous."

"Linked up with the development of our great power systems is the development of the vast natural resources of this continent, timber, minerals, the requirements of our agricultural communities, water power and light have passed from being luxuries to necessities, preserving and merchandising of the products of the sea, and the increasing requirements of a growing population and industrial life."

NOT BEHIND HERE
"In this field of endeavor, I think our visiting friends from the south will agree that we on this side of the line are not lagging behind. I noticed the other day that the combined installations now under construction in the Dominion, will, when complete, produce more than 1,200,000 horsepower. This astounding development proves that the large power corporations are alive not only to all prospective demands, but are themselves fostering various undertakings of our industries. Our own Province of British Columbia, due to the growth of our timber and allied industries, has, in recent years, made wonderful development of its water power, and to keep pace with the ever-growing demand for electric power, the present year has seen greatly increased activity in this connection. It is estimated that within the next two years the total electrical output in this Province will be increased 50 per cent."

EFFICIENT SERVICE
"The public utility corporations of to-day are giving the most efficient and economical service it is possible to give, and those responsible for the administration and management of these large corporations, although naturally doing their utmost to obtain a return on the capital invested, never overlook the requirements of the public, and know that their success will be more permanent and more solid, and all the more gratifying, when built upon the good-will of their customers."

Following luncheon the visitors were entertained at golf and sightseeing tours.

They will leave here at 6:30 o'clock this evening on the return trip to Seattle.

Hawks Makes Return Flight Across The U.S.

Metropolitan Airport, Los Angeles, June 28.—Less than eight hours after establishing a new east-west transcontinental States nonstop flight record, Capt. Frank Hawks took off at 3:27 a.m. to-day, seeking to lower his own mark of 18 hours 21 minutes 59 seconds from here to New York.

Hawks clipped 5 hours 40 minutes 28 seconds from the previous mark when he landed his Lockheed monoplane at 8:23:23 last night, 19 hours 10 minutes 32 seconds after he had taken off. The record had been held by the late Capt. C. B. D. Collier and Harry Tucker.

A series of mishaps which held him here more than seven hours instead of an hour and a half as he planned, made it impossible for him to reach Roosevelt Field on the Atlantic seaboard within the thirty-six-hour limit he had previously set for himself.

The flier announced before he left that he hoped to reach New York within fourteen hours.

Twenty-eight Rescued From Ship In Breakers

San Francisco, June 28.—A message from U.S. coastguardsmen at Point Reyes, Cal., this morning said the twelve remaining members of the crew aboard the wrecked freighter Hartwood had been taken off and that the ship was pounding to pieces on the rocks. Sixteen members of the crew were taken off shortly before midnight.

The distressed vessel flashed an SOS at 9:18 o'clock last night and shortly afterward the Mackay-Federal Marine Radio Station at Daly City received a message stating it had gone on the rocks off Point Reyes.

A coastguard crew went to the rescue and took off sixteen of the men. Rescue workers reported the other members of the crew and the captain had refused to leave ship.

The Hartwood sailed from San Francisco at 5 p.m. yesterday, bound for Willapa, Wash. Of 545 tons, she is owned by the Hartwood Lumber Company.

The steamer Admiral Peoples was standing by the distressed ship shortly after the vessel went on the rocks, a radio message said.

VANCOUVER AIRMAN ESCAPES IN CRASH

Vancouver, June 28.—Stepping from his wrecked machine just before it burst into flames after a crash, Albert E. Bennett, 1622 East Twelfth Street, Vancouver, a student pilot of Dominion Airways Limited, had a remarkable escape from instant death at Lulu Island at 11 o'clock this forenoon. Although cut about the face and badly bruised, he was able to free himself from the plane and walk to the airport.

Bennett, who was doing solo flying preparing for his pilot's license, apparently lost control of his plane, and crashed into a vertical bank.

The machine went into a spin and crashed in a small meadow half a mile south of the Lansdown racetrack.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL
The injured airman was removed from the city's temporary airport near the Lansdowne track to the office of Dr. Andrew Lowrie at Marpole. An examination showed he might be suffering from a fracture of the skull. He was moved to the General Hospital for an X-ray examination after the wounds about his head and shoulders had been dressed.

Bennett's face was cut in several places when he was thrown forward against the front of the cockpit by the impact of the crash. He was badly bruised in all parts of his body.

he found Qualler in possession of his gun and in a defiant mood. Fortunately the constable had taken the ignition key of the car. Qualler made a clean getaway, but Tamborick remained in the car.

FOUND FOOD
After his escape Qualler evidently ate lunch at the Harry Steves house, a mile from Hedley. Remains of a meal were found, as well as the stolen belt and handcuffs, but Qualler evidently kept the revolver.

On Empire Day Qualler stormed Keremeos and, after entering two homes, chased a Chinese laundryman into and around the cannery and fired at Constable Spall when he attempted to arrest him. He was being sent down the coast on a charge of breaking parole for this offence.

More than 20,000 tourists vacationed in the Hawaiian Islands last year.

THE SUNSHINE CAMP

THE SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE IS TO be congratulated upon the fine sunshine camp which it has established at Sooke and which Premier Tolmie declared officially open yesterday. It would be difficult to find a better site for such an undertaking; nor is there much more to be desired as far as the general arrangements are concerned. The accommodation is comfortable and cheerful, with culinary and sanitary equipment as convenient as in the modern dwelling, while the magnificent beach furnishes a fitting background for an effort which will bring joy to many tired mothers and children in the summer months. In fact, one has only to exchange a few words with any of those who already are enjoying a holiday there to appreciate the manner in which they regard their good fortune. It means that to many who otherwise would get little respite from the kitchen and the wash tub there will be this annual change of scene and air, with all the physical and mental benefits it will bring.

It was fitting that special reference should have been made yesterday to the untiring energy which for some time Mr. Fred Landsberg has brought to bear upon the task of raising funds for this enterprise. To him it was recognized that special praise was due, while this community also has reason to be gratified with the manner in which so many of our citizens have made this fine work possible by generously contributing to its cost.

MR. THOMAS AND HIS JOB

TO INVESTIGATE THE QUESTION OF immigration from Great Britain at first hand, the Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, the minister in charge of unemployment in the Government of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, will pay another visit to Canada shortly. It is reported that he will make personal inquiries concerning the possibility of some common agreement between Great Britain and other parts of the Empire under which works of inter-Imperial necessity would be undertaken by the Dominions with financial aid from the British treasury. The principal objective, of course, is a new source of employment for large numbers of the Old Country's idle population.

In the last few years Canada as a new home for people from Great Britain has been "investigated" from many standpoints by competent observers. Those who had not been to this country before were immensely impressed by practically everything they saw. Those who were renewing acquaintance with familiar sights unhesitatingly reiterated their belief in the Dominion's glorious future—a great land in which to live. We Canadians think the same thing about Canada. But the investigator's thrill as he sails up the St. Lawrence, as he passes through industrial Ontario and the golden wheatfields of the Prairie Provinces, through the majestic Rockies and on to the Pacific Coast; the enthusiastic newspaper interview he gives when he returns to Britain, contribute very little towards the solution of what has come to be called the immigration problem.

It would be unfair to say that the very earnest and practical Mr. Thomas, whose clear thinking and executive ability for long have commanded wide respect in the Old Country, will fare no better than those who have "investigated" us before. His job in the MacDonald Ministry is to find some way of furnishing employment for a goodly number of Britain's idle. When he comes to Canada he will be on his mettle and approach his task with a realization of the fact that his ministerial reputation is more or less at stake. What is more, he will come with the full authority of the Government of which he is a member. Consequently he will be able to ask more questions, make more proposals, than those who have preceded him in a less official capacity. Thus we may expect his ultimate report to contain a great deal more than pleasant platitudes. It can be assumed, however, that he is under no delusion about the difficulty of his mission.

There are many reasons why people from Great Britain are not coming to Canada in such large numbers as they did before the war. Fairly advanced social legislation has improved the lot of the worker and his prospects in the declining years of life are short of the terrors they used to hold. The best type of settler who came to Canada years ago—and, of course, since—was the man who left a job, paid his own fare, got his own employment and then went into the business of turning himself into a good Canadian. The attraction may not be so compelling for him now. Then there is the case of the man who would make a first-class settler, but who is out of work and finding it mighty difficult to make ends meet, let alone finding the money for the fare to Canada. But the largest class of all is that which nothing short of an explosion would remove from its native land. And, to put it briefly, the volume of new population which Great Britain can send to Canada is relatively small; but it is satisfactory to note we are getting a greater share than any of the other Dominions, and, with public attention continually drawn to Canada by such visits as that which Mr. Thomas contemplates, the movement should strengthen.

When all is said, there is very little more to tell the intending migrant beyond the time-worn story: If you are healthy in mind and body, ready to take the first job that offers, and work hard, you will find a niche in Canada. Hundreds of thousands have relied upon nothing more than this general statement of fact and have been glad they did. Others have demanded an answer to the question: What can I do? Where can I get a job? Most likely they have regretted it. Whatever Mr. Thomas may do, therefore—and willing and interested ears will listen to all he has to say and propose—the key to Britain's migration problem lies in Britain and not in Canada.

THE VICTORY OVER FEAR

MOST OF US ARE RATHER ENVIOUS by nature. No matter how well we are getting along, we can usually find someone—someone with money, with power, with fame or with unusual ability—with whom we would gladly change places. But did it ever occur to you that it might be quite possible to be envious of a man who is dying of an incurable and painful disease?

Dr. Ozora Stearns Davis resigned the other day as president of the Chicago Theological Seminary. He is a sick man; the doctors have told him that he cannot live, and he knows that the rest of his life will consist of a more or less extended period of suffering.

Announcing his retirement, and the reason for it, Dr. Davis remarked:

"Of course, I don't want to go—this is a mighty interesting world, and I am having a mighty good time in it. But I am no more afraid of it (death) than I am of walking through the door to this study, for I know that I shall have a spiritual body to do with as I please, and won't have to worry about the aches and pains."

Any man who can look certain death in the eye and talk like that is a man to be envied, no matter how uncomfortable his days are.

For a man like that has something that most of us never quite get. Do what we will, we find it hard to beat down the oldest, most paralyzing fear the race knows—the fear of death. A trace of it lingers with us in spite of everything.

And, when all is said and done, the fact remains that the conquering of that fear is the greatest task any man can accomplish. Dr. Davis, for example, has made a definite and everlasting triumph. Nothing can frighten him or depress him. Pain, loneliness, inaction, death—they have become, to him, mere shadow-shapes, things that will pass in a moment of time. He has the ultimate victory.

It is a victory that all of us can have, if we have the strength and the faith. Indeed, one might go farther; it is the one thing in life worth having. Without it, any conquest that a man may make are meaningless.

The jungle savage, carving grotesque faces in his totem pole, was merely trying his best to win that victory. The pyramids of Egypt were built for the same reason. All the temples of the ancient world, and all the forgotten prayers that went up to gilded images, were bulwarks put up by struggling men against the oldest fear of all. The question that was put on the shores of Galilee twenty centuries ago—"If a man die, shall he live again?" is, and always has been, the question of questions.

Dr. Davis has found the answer. He faces suffering and death—and he says, calmly, "I am no more afraid of it than I am of walking through the door to this study."

Of all the men in the world, there is no one more to be envied.

ROSE DAY

IN FORMER YEARS ALEXANDRA ROSE Day in Victoria has been marked by a very liberal response to the appeal with which it is associated, and it should be safe to predict that the generosity of our citizens will be just as striking to-morrow. The sale of these emblems will be in charge of the Municipal Chapter of the I.O.D.E. and the proceeds will be devoted to the needs of children in this community who know but very few of the good things of life, while some part of the receipts also will go to assist the fine work which is being done for crippled children at the Queen Alexandra Solarium at Mill Bay. Apart from the fact, therefore, that this annual sale of roses pays tribute to the memory of the late Queen, the cause which will be aided by the funds collected are worthy of very generous support.

POLICEMEN AND ARMS

IF WE WERE GIVEN TO SPECULATION on the subject of murder, we might ask how many more policemen would have been killed by that bank bandit at Hamilton yesterday if the officers of the law had been unarmed. One paid the penalty of devotion to duty and his death was promptly avenged by a brother officer. It is little short of marvellous there were no further casualties.

This tragic incident shows the absurdity of the contention of some people that our police should be disarmed. Desperate criminals regard guns essential parts of their equipment. When they shoot it is because of the fear of capture, and they would have an easy time if their adversaries were unarmed.

NEWSPAPERS NOWADAYS

The Toronto Star

During the last twenty-five years quite a change has been taking place in the newspapers of Canada, and they are becoming sounder business enterprises than they used to be. They do not work for nothing nearly as much as they once did; nor do they look around so much for things they can get "free." In the old days the "giving" newspapers did far exceeded their gettings. They used to lead an amiable, free-and-easy but rather impetuous existence. It is not so now and the change that has taken place is much for the better.

Loose Ends

Russia's grown-up children learn to play—with bayonets and gas masks—the season of bigger and better fish stories opens with the latest story of a fisherman with a moving tale of wild life, golf balls and golf bags.

By H. B. W.

LIKE A child who has known no childhood, the Russian people are just beginning to learn how to play, after the Russian nightmare of centuries. In Moscow the Soviet Government has opened a great park in the grounds which with the Great, somewhat promiscuous her affections, gave her lover, Orloff, in return for the present of a large diamond. In an open space in this new public park the thoughtful government has placed an official to train the people in the mysteries of "communal games." The populace surrounds him in a circle and at the word of command, the people slap themselves sharply on both knees—a simple, childish game, which the Russians crowd about to play, but apparently without much joy. Then as a thrilling variation, the official instructor suggests that they cross arms and hold the right arm with the left hand and their noses with the right, and then quickly reverse the process. The Russian people, having learned to obey, follow these instructions, though some of them look a little bewildered at so much pleasure.

NOT FAR off, the children of Russia are instructed in the use of gas masks against the day when, so the Soviet Government tells them, the armies of Capitalism will descend upon Russia to crush its non-capitalistic government. Visitors to the park also may engage without fees in bayonet instruction, with real guns and bayonets, and with a uniformed soldier to help him. In the shooting gallery, where the Russian may learn to use a gun otherwise, is a figure of Premier Poincaré, of France, which falls over when hit, and one of Trotsky, from whose face drops a mask, revealing the hideous visage of the capitalist, to whom the former Russian war minister is thought to have sold his soul.

AND YET in this pathetic and dismal scene, where the ideas of Russia's grown-up children are being taught to spend there is an occasional flash of humor. After hearing of the defeat of the Baldwin Government in England, The Weekly Art Gazette thus lamented: "Weep, ye cartoonists! Weep, ye pamphleteers! He is gone! Your breadwinner and friend has vanished from England's scene! Chamberlain has fallen! Comrades, weep! No longer can a hungry cartoonist draw a monarch and top hat and sell it for ten rubles! No longer can a needy scribe detect Chamberlain's grasping hand behind the coconut famine in a Pacific island and earn his dinner by denouncing the new monarch. Comrades, weep, for Chamberlain has fallen!"

THIS IS the season when sportsmen will do strange things and record still stranger ones when they return home, but probably none of the tales of the big fish that get away will equal the well-established accomplishments of the Smiling Bill Vogt, American fisherman extraordinary. After you have heard what this gentleman can do with a rod and line you probably will not care to go fishing again at all. At seventy-five feet, with a fly rod and line, he can slice a peeled banana or flick a piece from a cigarette. At fifty to fifty-five feet, aiming at two-inch blocks bobbing in the water, he has scored eight hits to seven by a crack rifle shot. With bait and flies he has caught muskrats, beavers, porcupines, coons, gophers, guinea fow, quail, loons and mud hens. He has caught trout with an onion for bait, bass with carrots, parsnips, beets, corn-on-cob, string beans and cherries. When he claimed that he could snare ducks flying at a hundred miles an hour fifty to a hundred feet above the ground, with a fishing line and hook, Mr. Vogt was called upon to perform the greatest fishing feat of all time. To an aeroplane he fastened a fifty-foot cord, a one-foot string, and an old black sock, eighteen inches long, four inches in diameter. The plane then swooped in an arc a hundred feet above him, the sock streaking out behind it. With a five-foot bait casting rod and a line equipped with nine small hooks, he snared the sock and jerked it from the string in three out of five tries.

EVEN THAT moving narrative is dull and uninteresting compared with what follows. Just as all the old serviceable golf alibis were getting rather threadbare, just as we were getting tired of hearing about the adverse wind, the dazzling sun, the dub partner, the late hours on the previous night and all the other veteran yarns, along comes Mr. Lou Crosby, of Banff, and reinstates the royal and ancient game in its royal and ancient place of dignity. No common or garden alibi for Mr. Crosby. He has no complaint to make of the greens nor the fairways. He does not say he was hopelessly stymied, or that his ball landed in the water. Instead he has given golf an alibi that is an epic.

WHEN he was playing at Banff this week says Mr. Crosby, he hit a long drive—drives leading up to alibis are always long, low and straight, despite a hard head wind—and the ball landed on the green. Just as Mr. Crosby was thinking that he would sink his first putt and beat Mrs. Crosby and his two sons, suddenly out of the woods dashed a giant elk. Most elk would have seen the humans and departed, but not this one. It was too well trained an accomplice "in the art of alibi." It hurried to the green and picked up Mr. Crosby's ball. Now, an ordinary elk, having gone so far, would have taken the ball away with him and Mr. Crosby could have played another, thus forgetting only two strokes. This sagacious animal, however, took the ball to a nearby bunker and deposited it there. And of course by the time Mr. Crosby had wasted unnumbered strokes getting out of the bunker he had lost the match.

KIRK'S WELLINGTON COAL

"Does Last Longer"

THE CANADIAN Pacific Railway at Banff never overlooks the smallest item of its guests' comfort and convenience. Its competitors will have difficulty in duplicating the alibi elk, truly a super service to golfers. Now that this thrilling story is out, we await the account of the Colwood golfer whose ball was carried off by an eagle and played with a club from its nest atop Douglas fir tree down by Goldstream.

AS IF bunkers and trained elk were not hard enough on them, golfers are in for worse trouble. Dr. Horace Gray, eminent physician, of Chicago, has announced to the medical profession at large the result of long study of golf anatomies, and the result is rather alarming. He finds that golf has developed a brand new recreational malady, the wrenched back. This, he says, attacks men between thirty-five and forty-five, and is due to the "brisk, snappy twist of the trunk" necessary in playing the ball out of bunkers. Having found this malady, Dr. Gray has no cure for it, except to refrain from golf after you reach thirty-five until you reach forty-six, or to keep out of the bunkers. Both cures are equally impossible. No golfer can give up golf and, with the elk alibi always available, no one can keep out of the bunkers either.

SAMOAN EVENT
Apia, British Samoa, June 28.—Tamasese, native chieftain, was welcomed back to his native island yesterday by 2,000 members of the Mau (native league of Samoa). He returned from New Zealand, where he had served a six-month term for obstructionist tactics against the New Zealand administration. Tamasese was greeted at the pier by a large gathering of native sympathizers and lesser leaders and escorted to his village at the outskirts of Apia, where festivities were held.

Omnibus and tram tickets issued in London each day total up to 7,000,000.

"CITY OF BEAUTIFUL ROSES" ABOUNDING IN PERFUMERY IS IDEAL OF SOCIETY HEAD

Victoria, as the "City of Beautiful Roses," implying in a real sense the beauty and perfume which are naturally attributed to those gorgeous flowers, is an ideal for which the Oak Bay Rose Society is striving, according to the president, W. P. Walker.

"The Canadian Pacific Railway recently issued a folder describing Victoria as 'The City of Roses,'" said Dr. Walker. "Perhaps no name could more aptly portray the charm of this city of homes. It implies that our visitors will find awaiting them a pure sweet scented atmosphere above a land inhabited by people who are as enchanting as the queenly flowers surrounding them, for has not nature ordained that we shall take color from our environment?"

"It is a pretty compliment that has been paid us, but we would like to emphasize rather on the beauty of our roses, and absorb more of the joy they give when all of them are really queens.

NOT DIFFICULT TO GROW
"It is not difficult to grow roses in Victoria. No climate in the world is more favorable to the growth of our roses, and for that matter, our winters are just cold enough to ensure a hibernating sleep of short duration, and this enforced rest engenders a vigorous response to the influence of spring. Without it, June's roses would be thin and feeble."

"It is true that some roses are of delicate constitution and prone to diseases of various kinds, and if we would make Victoria a real 'City of Roses' we should study these things and plant only those varieties which are immune to disease and of robust constitution. If you will eliminate the unfit, you need take but little care of the healthy."

RESULTS DEMONSTRATED
"It was in the hope that Victoria might become a 'City of Roses' that the Oak Bay Rose Society was established nearly six years ago. It exists in order to help our citizens to grow the best roses with the least labor. It holds a rose show annually in order to demonstrate the results that may be obtained, and to exhibit specimen bloom of new and improved varieties. Its true function is, however, an educational one. It has done much to spread information among its members, but it cannot be satisfied with its present success, or it will fade away into an unambitious show organization, and accomplish nothing more than an annual massacre of flowers. We want to see roses flourishing, growing luxuriantly, and expressing the joy of life."

"It is the specialist who reaps the richest reward for his labor in every branch of industry, and we urge that a policy of specialization be adopted in the parks and gardens for which we are already famous. If this be done, surely we could choose no more gracious lady than the queen of flowers to bear our message abroad."

EVERYONE CAN HELP
"Everyone can play a part in making this city more beautiful; it is one purpose upon which all may unite, and this society asks for support in its endeavor to improve upon the phrase used by the C.P.R. and make it known as the 'City of Beautiful Roses.'"

To All Rose Lovers

Oakland Nurseries wish to state that they have been in the Nursery business in Victoria since 1875, and have never grown better roses than during the present year. CHINESE WOMEN IN NEW FIELDS

No Longer Are They Satisfied to Merely Occupy a Place in the Home

Foochow, China, June 28.—Of all the thousands of years of Chinese history, the year just closed is said to constitute a record for the increase of activities in almost every endeavor on the part of Chinese women. To begin with, the last year was an exceptionally long one as, according to the lunar calendar, it was leap year and leap year in China means an extra month in the year instead of an extra day as is the case in the West.

During the year Chinese women entered into almost every possible field of endeavor. No longer do they occupy merely a place in the home; instead, they are taking part in commercial, civic and political affairs of their country. In such organizations as the Y.W.C.A. they have taken a great interest and all such institutions are undergoing sharp development in many parts of China.

Chinese women are participating in campaigns for financing various undertakings. Heretofore, such campaigns were left to men. Even the Y.W.C.A., which recently conducted its annual membership and financial campaign here, turned to a Chinese woman for help in making the drive a success. Financial subscriptions were not coming in in required amounts. Mrs. Emily Ding, wife of the president of the Peking Christian University, a mission school supporter, volunteered to assist in the campaign. Within a week she canvassed the business men of the city and unaided obtained thousands of dollars in subscriptions which made it possible for the Y.W.C.A. to carry on its work during 1929.

Queen Mary Holds Final Royal Court of Season; Brilliant Scenes

London, June 28.—The final royal court of the season was held in a blaze of crimson and golden splendor at Buckingham Palace last night.

Queen Mary wore a Russian shaped coronet, ablaze with diamonds, while on her breast flashed the great Koh-i-noor. The blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter was her only decoration. The Duke of York took the place of his elder brother, in escorting his mother from the drawing-room to the ballroom.

Behind the queen and grouped around the single golden throne stood the Duke and Prince George, both in

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped, self-addressed envelope forwarded to the editor will bring a personal reply.

YOUNG MOTHER DESCRIBES METHOD OF BATHING BABY

Another Young Mother writes: "I wonder if you think this method of bathing baby, taught me at the hospital, is a good one? I have a large basin of water in which I put a teaspoon of cornstarch. I do not use soap on baby. First, I undress her entirely and then let her kick and exercise. Then I wash her scalp well and massage it with my fingers and dry it thoroughly. I wash her eyelids gently, beginning at the outside corner and washing toward the nose. I use a separate piece of cotton for each eye. I wash her nose by twisting a corner of the washcloth into a tiny point. I wash her face carefully and dry it. I wash and dry each ear, using cotton. I wash arms, legs, body, each part separately and cover after drying. Next I powder her with a mixture of three parts cornstarch and one part boracic acid powder.

"I trim baby's toe and finger nails often, being sure to cut the toe nails straight across.

"What is the cause and cure of dry scalp? I massage vaseline into the scalp once a week and her hair is soft and curly and no crust on the scalp, but prevention is better than cure. What do you think of my method of bathing? Baby is four and one-half months old."

BIRTHDAY PRESENTS

One Mother Says: Choosing a birthday or Christmas gift for my two little nephews is never a matter of troubled thought or guesswork since they have learned to find a special boy hero whom they enjoy reading about and each time a day comes that calls for a gift to either boy I give a book of the series. I make note of each book given so that I do not give a duplicate and as both boys read the same books it gives double pleasure.

SUNSHINE CAMP BOYS' SCHOOL DOORS CLOSED

Premier Congratulates Social Service League Upon Notable Achievement

Beautiful Site at Sooke Well Equipped With Comfortable Buildings

Bathed in the gentle golden warmth from a beaming sun, Sunshine Camp at Sooke, Sooke Harbor, the "pleasant" new summer holiday camp for mothers, was opened yesterday afternoon by Premier S. F. Tolmie, on behalf of the Social Service League of Victoria. A large gathering of leading citizens of Greater Victoria attended the ceremonies, joining heartily in the applause which greeted the Premier. He was introduced by R. S. Anderson, president of the Social Service League, who acted as chairman of the ceremonies.

Mr. Tolmie, who is at his inability to be present, was sent by Lieutenant-Governor R. Randolph Bruce. Mr. Anderson took occasion, prior to the opening of the camp, to warmly compliment Premier Tolmie, Joseph Patrick and Miss Spencer upon their notable success in organizing the camp, which had been the splendid new camp of three acres of scenic waterfront. Their efforts had been vital in raising the funds required for the construction of the family sleeping cottages, the central administration building, dining quarters, the excellent sanitary arrangements and the splendid water supply.

Miss Olive Snyder, secretary of the league, was presented by Mr. Anderson with a bouquet in recognition of her untiring services.

ESQUIMALT'S WELCOME
 Hon. R. H. "Jolly" M.P.P., on behalf of Esquimalt constituency, welcomed the Social Service League to Sooke, and briefly reviewed the great task of helpful kindness to which the league members had put their shoulders. Mr. Tolmie congratulated the league upon the location chosen for the camp, remarking that a better site would be difficult to find in Esquimalt District and no happier choice could have been made.

Mayor Herbert Ansonb told of the value of the Social Service League in the development of a fine spirit of citizenship among the people of Victoria. He expressed pride in the achievements of the league in the years since its formation and foresaw an increasing usefulness in the years ahead. He made more notable through provision of such fine equipment for the annual summer vacations provided mothers and their children.

Mayor Ansonb regretted that Victoria's estimates for the year had already been drawn up when Mr. Landsberg called on the city for only one but the enterprise, nevertheless, had his heartiest sympathy and support. Premier Tolmie preceded his formal opening of the camp by a personal reminiscence of his early association with the district and particularly with the farm of which the camp was once a portion. He recalled that, as a veterinarian, he had often found occasion to visit the farm, and remarked that the kindly and famous hospitality of his Sooke friends had been a factor in developing him into the man he had become.

"Such a camp as this is a great benefit to a community, not only for the health and happiness which it gives the children, but for the part which it plays in building up a better citizenship. I hope that it will have the heartiest support of everyone, and that it will prosper," said Premier Tolmie. He paid special tribute to F. Landsberg, chairman of the financial committee.

Following the formal opening, Premier Tolmie officiated at the planting of a memorial tree, presented to the league by Miss L. M. A. Savory of Colwood. With vigorous strokes Dr. Tolmie delved a large hole in the friable red soil, planted the tree with well spread roots and vigorously stamped the replaced soil back in place, his energetic labor being rewarded with rounds of applause.

Following the ceremonies tea was served to the hundreds of visitors in the dining hall, a well-known business man of Montreal, says:
 "I had indigestion so bad, I dreaded mealtime for I could not eat without suffering for hours. At times, I could not keep down food at all, and my nerves were so bad that I was awake nearly all night. TANLAC is more wonderful than any claim made for it, and thanks to it, I now eat what I want without fear of after-troubles."
 "Thousands and thousands of men and women are well and happy to-day because they tried TANLAC. Get a bottle of your druggist's to-day. It costs less than 2c a dose—and your money refunded, if you are not perfectly satisfied." (Adv.)

One of the great advantages of the new camp as compared with any previous one operated by the society, is the fact that it has plumbing both inside and outside, with showers, laundry and wash-house. As the whole object of the camp, so far as the mothers is concerned, is to give them a complete rest, it has been important to make conditions such that the staff can carry on without their assistance.

The camp faces southeast and is surrounded by three acres of land pretty wooded with maples and firs, and with sufficient broom about the cottages to break the force of any wind. The cottages have been completely presented—one by Toc H, the other by St. Margaret's School.

The day's programme at the camp begins with breakfast at 8 o'clock, and ends with supper at 8:30, the putting to bed of the babies, these in turn followed by the older children and grown-ups. Bathing and clam-digging, picnicking on the beach and games pass the happy hours for seniors and younger folk.

Among the directors of the camp present yesterday were the honorary vice-president, J. A. Sawyer; the president, R. S. Anderson; the treasurer, G. R. Chisholm; the secretary, Mrs. F. A. Osborne; Mrs. J. R. Redpath; Mrs. E. Lobb; Mrs. Annie Hibberson; Mrs. W. P. Miller; Miss Spencer; Miss Ogilvie; Rev. Father Scheele; F. Landsberg; A. R. Several Upsets Witnessed To-day In Wimbledon Tennis

Veteran Of Courts Surprises By Win Over British Star

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, Playing at Wimbledon for First Time Since She Won Title Twenty-four Years Ago, Defeats Eileen Bennett of England, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4; Senorita De Alvarez, One of Favorites, Loses to Mrs. C. G. McIlguham of Great Britain.

Wimbledon, Eng., June 28.—Bill Tilden continued his parade through the English tennis championships at Wimbledon, defeating Christian Boususs, one of the French invaders, in straight sets, 6-3, 9-7, 6-4, to-day.

As "Big Bill" was downing the Frenchman, John Hennessey was forced to admit defeat at the hands of another Frenchman, Henri Cochet. The ace of the French Davis Cup team took the first two sets easily, but was forced to play his best before annexing the third match. The scores were 6-1, 6-4, 9-7.

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy joined the victorious United States star, eliminating Miss Eileen Bennett of England, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

George Lott and Miss Edith Cross defeated P. M. Slater of New Zealand and Miss Urber of England, 6-4, 6-6, 6-4.

The United States-British combination of Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Miss Betty Nussall eliminated Mrs. May and Miss Clarke, 6-1, 6-0.

SPANISH STAR BEATEN
Senorita De Alvarez, the Spanish star picked to meet Helen Wills in the finals, was eliminated in one of the biggest upsets of the play. Her conqueror was Mrs. C. G. McIlguham of Great Britain. The score was 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

Miss Helen Jacobs of California disposed of Miss Joan Fry, one of the younger British stars, 6-3, 6-4.

The victory of the veteran, Mrs. Bundy, over Eileen Bennett was the biggest sensation of the women's play at Wimbledon, even surpassing Mrs. McIlguham's triumph over the Spanish star.

Mrs. Bundy, playing at Wimbledon for the first time since winning the title twenty-four years ago, played a game that rivaled her performances of younger days. She fought for every point, covering the entire court much faster and better than her beautiful English girl opponent.

After trailing four games to one in the third and deciding set, the Californian won five straight games, falling back on her volley and rushing to the net with the eagerness of youth. Mrs. Bundy's victory brought forth roars of applause from the Americans in the stands.

Another United States player faded from the picture when Jean Borotra, the bounding Basque, of France, trounced the United States Davis Cup youngster, Wilmer Allison, 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3.

Vancouver Amateur Union Heads Would Tighten the Rules

Vancouver, B.C., June 28.—A recommendation for elimination of Clause "B," Page 10, of the official handbook of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, under "Definition of an Amateur," was passed at the annual meeting of the local board of the British Columbia Branch of the A.U.C. held Wednesday night. The clause which is desirous of eliminating is as follows:

"An athlete who has competed with or against a professional for a prize or when gate receipts are charged or a collection taken (except as may be specially provided for by by-laws of the union), and has entered in any competition under a name other than his own, shall be ineligible for registration as an amateur. An athlete shall not lose his amateur status by competing with or against a professional in cricket, golf or indoor bowling."

As it stands at present, cricketers, golfers and indoor bowlers can play with or against a professional and still retain their amateur status. The local board proposes to place these athletes in the same class as other who come under the ban of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. Election of officers resulted as follows: President, John Muter; first vice-president, George Winter; secretary-treasurer, A. Riley; and a number of additions to these. A. N. Moore and Rev. H. T. Elkington will comprise the executive. Registration committee, J. Muter and A. Riley.

SOFTBALL

Beating Marigold, winners of the first half of the Westholme Softball League, by an 8-1 score, Victoria West jumped into a tie with the Y.M.C.A. for the leadership of the second half of the league last night.

Following two scoreless innings, Jones clouted a homer in the third with two men on base to give the Wests a three-run lead. The winners scored three more in the seventh and two in the eighth to complete their total.

Tillyer scored Marigold's only tally in the final inning.

In the other league game of the evening, The Times handed Colwood Wood Company an 8-5 defeat to keep in the running for league honors.

TO-NIGHT'S GAMES
Sasich Service Club vs. View Royals, North Saanich School ground; Naval Barracks vs. H.M.C.S. Vancouver, Causton ground; Plimley & Ritchie vs. Y.M.I. Victoria West Park.

These games will start at 6.45 o'clock instead of at the usual time of 6.30.

IMPORTANT BALL GAME IS CARDED American Pennant Race Seems Ended As National Starts

Sidney and Tilliums Will Fight For League Leadership To-night

Fords Overwhelm Dodges In Garage League Ball Game

Fanning ten batters and allowing only five scattered hits "Doc" Todd, Ford pitcher, held the Dodges to six runs, while Bridgwood and Hughes, on the mound for the opposition, permitted ten bases on balls and sixteen safeties to give the Fords a 24-6 victory in the Garage League baseball fixture at the Royal Athletic Park last night.

Bridgwood's homer, with one on, was the feature of the evening. By virtue of their win, Fords took undisputed leadership of the league.

CANADIAN BEATEN
Buffalo, June 28.—Miss Dora Virtue of Montreal went down to defeat yesterday in the Buffalo Country Club's women's invitation golf tournament before Miss Jeannette Hunter of Pittsburgh. Miss Hunter was one up on Miss Virtue at the end of the match.

FOXY PHANN When women get gray hair it's a sure bet they'll keep it dark

In a battle to decide the leadership of the league, Sidney and Tilliums will meet in a Senior League baseball game at the Royal Athletic Park to-night, starting at 8.15 o'clock.

Sidney are at present leading the league by the margin of half a game over the Tilliums. A win for either club to-night will give them the leadership.

While all this was going on in the Barnard League, the Pittsburgh Pirates were winning from Cincinnati, 5-3 and the Chicago Cubs were shading the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-1. Safe from the reach of the Brooklyn Robins, the New York Giants had a pleasant afternoon against their cousins, the Phillies, whom they defeated 9-3 for the eleventh time in twelve starts. If the rest of the second division only would play the Giants the same respect the Phillies pay, John McGraw's troubles would end.

Broad hints have been made by box officials no doubt, that the current enigma of the Yankees and the Athletics is something to be considered crucial. As the current writing, however, the most crucial circumstance in Shibe Park is the pitching plight of Miller Huggins. Waite Hoyt was used in the losing game yesterday. George Pipgras can hardly be expected to turn in two consecutive performances of the calibre of last Saturday's effort, and the rest of the Yankee barmen seem unable to make the Athletics even hesitate.

THE SOUTHPAW SPELL
George Walberg once more wove the southpaw spell about Yankee bats yesterday to win his tenth victory of the season and his third straight from the champions. Every time an Athletic or two landed on the paths, Miss Bishop Walberg's task eased. Bing Miller hit in his twenty-eighth straight game, extending his own season's record. One of his drives was a triple which did Master Hoyt no good.

All of the Yankee scores were the result of home runs. Tony Lazzeri picked up his eighth after Gehrig had singled in the fourth and Lou Gehrig crashed through with his twenty-first in the sixth to tie Melvin Ott of the Giants for the interleague lead.

Sammy Gray resigned in favor of a pinch batsman just too soon to get credit for the Brown's garrison finish against Al Thomas in Chicago. George Blaeholder got the benefit of home runs by Manush and Melille in the ninth.

The Boston Red Sox defeated Washington 4-1 and Detroit won from Cleveland 6-2, in the remaining American League fixtures.

Rogers Hornsby continued the Cub streak against the Cardinals by rapping Clarence Mitchell for a home run in the eighth with the score tied at 4-4. The Rajah went on something of a spree with three-out of four, driving in two runs. Guy Bush manned the guns for Joe McCarthy.

The victory kept the Cubs in second place (Concluded on Page 11)

Argonauts In Fast Trial At Henley Course

Henley-on-Thames, Eng., June 28.—Under conditions that might have been better, the Argonaut Club of Toronto swept through their second full course trial on the Thames last evening to cover the seven-eighths of a mile course in 6 minutes and 59 seconds, the same time as recorded Monday. In view of the changed conditions, the practice was regarded as showing much improvement and the time was considered very fast.

Keen on being in first class shape, the Argonauts started out this evening in gull weather with a keen wind blowing.

Joe Wright Jr. and Jack Guest, also of the Argos, had two light outings to-day but neither attempted any time trial.

Wright is to defend the famous diamond sculls he won last year, while Guest will be one of his opponents.

TACOMA KITS TO PLAY HERE IN TWO GAMES Will Oppose Capitals in Double-Header To-morrow; Visitors Have Smart Team

A real treat is in store for the baseball fans to-morrow when the Victoria Capitals meet the fast-stepping Tacoma Kittens in a double-header at the Royal Athletic Park. The games will commence at 2.30 o'clock and 6 o'clock.

"Allie" McGregor will be calling the balls and strikes.

Cy Milne, popular manager of the Caps, announced this morning that he would send Jimmy Dangerfield to the mound in the afternoon fixture, while Norm Forbes will work in the twilight game. Both pitchers are in good form and after a workout Wednesday night reported themselves in first-class shape for the Kits. Forbes will not play in the afternoon game so as to be in condition for the evening encounter. The remainder of the Capitals' team will be out in full force as the Island leaguers are anxious to humble the Tacoma boys.

BRING SAME TEAM
According to word received from Tacoma the Kittens are bringing over the same team that defeated a Senior League all-star team here two weeks ago. The same two pitchers will work on the mound. Thiel will take the box for the first game. Fans will remember the playing of Thout, the Tacoma catcher, who proved to be one of the best backstops seen here for many years.

The Capitals will experience a busy week-end with five games scheduled in three days. Following their two fixtures with the Tacoma team the Caps will leave for Port Alberni, where they will play Sunday in an Island League game. Sid Shaw will pitch for the Capitals against the Up-Islanders. Following this game the Caps will return to Nanaimo, where they stay over until Monday to play two exhibition games.

Mixed Foursome To Be Held At Oak Bay Monday

On July 1 a mixed foursome, consisting of eighteen holes medal play with half the combined handicaps, limited to thirty, allowed to be played at the Victoria Golf Club.

Competitors will choose their partners, arrange for their opponents and set their own starting times. The entrance fee will be $1 and three prizes will be given. Post entries will be received.

Schmeling Slashes Paolino to Pieces In Gory Encounter

German Heavyweight, After Slow Start, Opens Up in Last Six Rounds With Jabbing Lefts and Stiff Rights That Cut Spaniard's Face to Ribbons; Paolino Cheered by Crowd of 45,000 for His Wonderful Show of Gameness; German Improved as Fight Nearer End.

New York, June 28.—The rising might of Max Schmeling swept last night over the rock-ribbed figure of Paolino Uzcudun, and left the sturdy Basque a punch-battered wreck along his path to the world heavyweight championship.

For fifteen rounds, before a crowd of 45,000 that half filled the big American League ball park, the flashing young Teuton cut and slashed at Paolino's head and body, pulled and chased him about the ring and left him at the end a gory, shattered figure with nothing but courage. There were no knockdowns, but the lifting of Schmeling's hand in signal of victory at the close was just a gesture.

For the last six rounds the only question in the minds of the faithful who gathered for the first heavyweight extravaganza of the open air season was Paolino's ability to weather the storm of leather that flew at him from all angles, slashed his features, closed his left eye and left the wood-chopper's face a bumpy and irregular as his own Pyrenees of Spain.

Only in the early rounds was there a semblance of contest, and a slow one at that, as the Teuton, sticking to a methodical battle plan, met Paolino's rushes with straight lefts to the head usually hidden behind a barrage of gloves and elbows.

OPENING NEVER CAME
The stumpy Spaniard stalked forward, body bent, peering through his shaggy brows, and waited for the opening in Schmeling's defence that never came.

As Paolino, the apparently indestructible, came forward, Herr Max flicked at the bent arms and elbows with his long, left hand. Lithe and nimble, straining at the leash, he slowly prodded the Spaniard's guard, made his openings, and the flash shot out, cutting smashes to the face. Paolino followed him doggedly, like a faithful collie, taking what came his way, without once turning away, trying always to swing his huge paws in cumbersome arcs to the German's body.

For a time it seemed that Paolino was biding his time, taking punishment with the ease for which he is famous, waiting until the German tired and gave him the opportunity he wanted. But Max never let up. He got faster, more eager and more deadly as the fight went on. In the end he made a gory picture of misery of the proud Spaniard.

Paolino never has been knocked out in ring battle, never been knocked down, but as the full fury of Schmeling's attack broke about his sore and weary head, the Spaniard again seemed that last night the record was to be broken.

Paolino never has been knocked out in ring battle, never been knocked down, but as the full fury of Schmeling's attack broke about his sore and weary head, the Spaniard again seemed that last night the record was to be broken.

MAX OPENS UP
Max opened up in the ninth round and set out to end the battle right then and there. He stopped leaning defensively into Paolino in the clinches, turned with the Tacoma team the Caps will leave for Port Alberni, where they will play Sunday in an Island League game.

Came, like a tired man bucking a wild horse, Paolino leaped into of storm that increased in intensity with each passing round. Always the action was the same as the German, scenting the kill, lathered Paolino's torn features with punches, pouncing in leather in the attempt to reach the vital spot.

Schmeling was so anxious to bring the matter to a decisive close that he kept his fists at work on the Spaniard's head after the bell sounded to end the fourteenth round.

The tired Basque lifted his battered head, brought his hands back to fighting position and tried to carry on, too, but the effort was too great and he fell helpless in his chair while Referee Arthur Donovan pulled Schmeling away.

SCHMELING CAUTIOUS
The battling in the early rounds was so slow that there was no indication of a real battle. Schmeling fought cautiously, choosing to meet Paolino at his own game, with ever-ready arms and gloves wrapped around his body for protection. As a result they leaned together often, waiting for openings, while the crowd jeered and once even struck up a chorus of "Sweet Adeline."

But the steady jolting, the short jabs that slashed his features rapidly whittled Paolino, the strong man, down. The Basque reached Schmeling with ponderous hooks to the body in the third, fourth and fifth rounds, pulling the battle there almost to even terms. In the eighth and ninth the Spaniard made his bravest bid, surging in with waning strength to bull the splendidly-conditioned German boy around the ring and hurt him now and then with wide sweeps to the head and body.

THE LAST STAND
For Paolino, however, it was the last stand. He bled profusely from the forehead and from that point on fought almost instinctively, blinded by Schmeling's knife-like punches, battered and on the edge of unconsciousness at the end of every round. About half of the critics gave Schmeling ten or twelve of the fifteen rounds with none over.

The crowd of 45,000 paid close to $800,000 to see the festivities in the name of charity. About half of the proceeds will be turned over to Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's Milk Fund for Needy Children.

Round 1—Paolino walked out carefully, his body bent and arms folded across his head to meet Schmeling's pawing left jab. Max backed away and then put his head down to Paolino's and they tried to cut each other from deep cover as Max adopted the Spaniard's style and danced in front of him with his own arms forming a protecting barrier. Max forced the fighting in the centre of the ring, pecking at Paolino's head with his left. Uzcudun seemed content to lean in and wait, testing the power of the German's heavy guns. He took three solid right cracks on the head before losing a wild left hook that missed Max by a foot. They put their heads together again and pawed for openings while the crowd murmured disapproval at the bell.

Round 2—They went back to a slow and desultory pace that seemed to displease the customers. They leaned upon each other and smote at protected heads and sides. Schmeling lifted a right uppercut through the maze of Paolino's gloves and arms and bobbed the Spaniard's head back. The Basque then shed some of his caution and bulled into Schmeling, driving two lefts to the body.

Taking a leaf from Paolino's book, the German took his arm close to home for protection and there was little damage as they mauled in close. Schmeling stood up straight and dropped two left hooks to Paolino's jaw. The Spaniard could not seem to get the range but he still bore a mark. Schmeling's gloves as the bell sounded and the bores increased.

Round 3—Max came out apparently full of fire and determination to get some more. He bounded half a dozen straight lefts off Paolino's granite countenance and dropped over a short right. Paolino never flinched as Max bounced his famous right in the swartling's face. The Spaniard stuck with three hooks that seeped into Schmeling's body. The pace increased as Paolino swatted freely, trading his short hooks to the head for Schmeling's long punches. The Spaniard's guard was careless and dropped his guard and Schmeling whaled both hands to the head. Max winced as Paolino's sweeping left hook dropped low but he made no protest as the bell sounded.

Round 4—Schmeling again seemed content to let Schmeling carry the offensive. Biding his time and bobbing under what punches he could. The others took effect on his head and body but seemed to make no impression on him. He backed to the ropes as his time as Schmeling stepped around him in brisk fashion, pecking with lefts and dropping over occasional lights that mostly were blocked. They bent over with their heads again added upward at each other's chins. Through the tangle of chins and arms Max wrestled a bit while their arms were locked and threw Paolino off balance. The Spaniard kept his balance and came back unperturbed, still apparently holding his fire at the gong.

Round 5—It seemed as though Schmeling would have to do all the fighting until he backed to the ropes and gave the Spaniard an opening. Uzcudun bounded a left hook off Schmeling's chin but could gain no further. Paolino looped a left hook and maulled again with their heads and gloves bunched together. Paolino came out of his shell again but his sweeping left and right to the head whistled harmlessly over Schmeling's head. Max got a bit impatient poking at Paolino's gloves and elbows and opened up with both hands to the Spaniard's forehead. Paolino looped a left hook back through the punches and brought up his right to the chin at close quarters. He went to his corner at the bell with trickle of blood seeping from one nostril.

Round 6—Paolino rushed the limber German to the ropes and for the first time the slow draggy pace broke out into a real hot scrimmage. They stood apart at the hump and cracked at each other's head. Paolino boomed a half dozen short lefts into Schmeling's body but Max cracked two solid rights on the Basque's chin. They seemed to catch the fighting fever, however, and punched freely. Paolino looped his head in short arcs at Schmeling's head while Max bobbed low and threw everything he had behind his right hand. Paolino looped over a long overhand left to the chin as the bell rang.

Round 7—The inevitable headlock, head and arms locked together into an almost impenetrable barrier broke up again into a flurry of free punches. Schmeling opened up, came straight, the Basque whanged a left hook to the head, his best punch of the fight so far. Max drew back from the next two as they stood flat-footed by the ropes, drilled two clean rights into the Spaniard's chin. It was time to get together again and they locked arms and wrestled, punching and mauling in turn as each got an arm free. They cuffed and tore to the head and body at the ropes, neither doing much damage while the crowd became more insistent that they get down to business and stop.

Round 8—Schmeling went back to the job of bearing down this block of human granite from the Spanish Pyrenees. He slashed and cut at Paolino's swaying, armround head until Paolino let drive with a left and right hook that came from way back. They barely glanced off the German's head. Uzcudun cuffed Schmeling's head in a Four Nanaimo Citizens Capture Mystery Man!

LAST Saturday the Sarnal Mystery Man slipped quietly into Nanaimo. He wanted to make sure that Nanaimo folks were reading his weekly messages about the world's finest motor oil. He found they were. His visit cost him twenty dollars, but he is satisfied. The following Sarnal enthusiasts are also satisfied:

Messrs. E. Edmunds, J. Dideridge, Len VoTrevie and Neil McCarver.

They are satisfied because they know that Sarnal gives them better lubrication, increases power, adds pep, saves gas, makes their engine run more smoothly and pull better. They know that Sarnal is one oil that holds its body and gives them efficient lubrication right up to the last mile they run. They can actually feel the difference in the way their cars perform. Try Sarnal and you'll be satisfied.

Sarazen and Espinosa Lead in U.S. Open Golf

Sturdy Italians Tied For First Place With 142

Former Duplicates His 71 of Yesterday, While Espinosa Has a Par 72; George Von Elm, Detroit Amateur, Turns in a Sparkling 70 for Best Round of Day in Early Scores; Walter Hagen Goes to Pieces, Taking an 81 for Two-day Total of 167; Denismore Shute, Youthful Pro, Third With 144.

Winged Foot Golf Club, Mamaroneck, N.Y., June 28.—Blazing the way through a gusty wind, two sturdy Italian professionals, Gene Sarazen of New York and Al. Espinosa of Chicago, went into an early tie for the lead to-day with 142, two under par, for the thirty-six-hole, or half-way mark, of the United States open golf championship.

Sarazen duplicated his brilliant 71 of yesterday, chiefly because he needed only eleven putts on the last nine holes, while those behind him Espinosa came home with a par 72 to add to his fine 70 on the first round. Three putts and a bad five on the short thirteenth cost Espinosa a golden chance to take the lead.

These two performances left the issue over the leadership up to Bobby Jones, whose sensational 69 led the opening day's battle. The Atlanta amateur knew what he had to do as he prepared for his second round after lunch.

HAGEN SLIPS BADLY

Walter Hagen went to pieces with an 81, for a two-day total of 157. The British open champion joined the defending United States open titleholder, Johnny Farrell, among the favorites to fall by the wayside. Farrell's 84 yesterday put him out of the running for all practical purposes.

On the heels of the leaders was Denismore Shute, young Worthington, Ohio, pro, who beat par with a 71 after 73 yesterday to total 144, even par.

George Von Elm, amateur from Detroit, scored a sparkling 70 in the second round to-day. It was the best score to-day, with more than half the field in, and gave Von Elm a two-day total of 140.

neutral corner. His right hook dug into Max's body and made him bend a little more. The Spaniard butted Schmeling to the center of the ring, keeping up a slow and determined fire on the German's mid-section. Max brought this to a sudden halt with a solid smash to the chin at the bell.

Round 9—Max was more than half way across the ring in his eagerness to get going but Paolino marched stolidly and heavily onward to close quarters. The Basque looped a left hook to Schmeling's side but took two straight rights on the chin in return. The second, a full clout under the ear, seemed to stagger the Spaniard a trifle but he came ploughing back with a wild attack that missed Schmeling's head and landed on his shoulder.

Round 10—Schmeling opened things up under the bell by choosing to punch with Uzcudun in the clinch rather than tug and wrestle. Uzcudun threw two wild left hooks that never landed, but left him wide open to Schmeling's short jabbing right. Paolino spat blood as he drew away and leaned back into a rousing right uppercut. Schmeling leaned down with the Basque and lifted his left and right to the Spaniard's chin. Schmeling straightened the Spaniard up with a left hook, shook him to the heels with a full right under the ear. Paolino wobbled and lumps began to rise on his cheeks as he hung both hands in desperation to Schmeling's body. He was still a bit wobbly legged at the going.

Round 11—The limber German, keen and eager, ripped from his corner and never let up for a second as he leaned over and darted both hands to Paolino's head. The Spaniard swayed a bit as Max found his chin with his jolting right and butted the Basque about the ring. He bobbed in front of Paolino, looking for openings and his hands flashed like spear thrusts into Paolino's damaged head. Two full rights to the chin rocked the Spaniard again and he leaned tiredly on the powerful young German, sweeping his hands in cumbersome arcs just at the parts of the anatomy Schmeling seemed always to have protected. The Spaniard was fighting desperately, his face steadily growing more bloodied at the going.

Round 12—Schmeling arose relentlessly to get into the burly Basque, flicking lefts to the face and watching for an opening for his right hand. Paolino rallied, drove the German to the ropes with sweeping socks to the body and mauled at Max's body as he lay there tiredly resting his head on the hollow of the Teuton's shoulder. Max pushed him away and chopped at the Spaniard's head. He hammered a left hook into Paolino's head as he pushed him aside and the Spaniard almost fell into the German's corner. Paolino seemed anxious to stand close, leaning into the German like a man fighting a gale of wind, but facing instead a steady deluge of leather. The Spaniard was still holding tight at the going.

Round 13—Max leaped to his battle plan, pecking and slashing at his opponent's head, leaning in with him to outstep the Spaniard with punches. When an opening offered, it was a head to head struggle with the Basque's strength keeping them mostly in ineffectual clinches. Schmeling complained of a low blow and Paolino wobbled, apparently tired out, as he stepped back and grimaced at the referee that no foul had been intended. The Spaniard seemed to fight aimlessly and his punches frequently went wild. Schmeling's right opened a deep gash over Paolino's eye and he wavered as the German tore in to end the argument. The bell ended the round as the Spaniard fell forward into a clinch.

Round 14—Schmeling drove in with an overhand right that made a mess of Paolino's left eye, blood trickled down and the lid almost closed on his cheek. Wavering but still full of courage, Paolino threw one left hook after another at the German's head and body but there was no steam in his punches and Max shook them off, appearing as fresh as when the fight opened. Relentlessly he stepped around the Spaniard hooking left and then the right into Paolino's tortured face. The Spaniard seemed no better at close quarters as Schmeling threw caution aside and belted for Paolino's chin in a clinch. A right uppercut sent Paolino reeling. He seemed unconscious on his feet and though the bell rang, Schmeling kept hammering him until the referee pulled them apart. The Basque almost fell into his seat as his trainers pulled him away.

Round 15—Schmeling met Paolino as the Basque rose from his seat but the referee would not let him punch until they shook hands. Uzcudun reeled under Schmeling's savage attack, his face gory and punched out of shape but his courage still kept him going. Schmeling followed him across the ring whaling left and right and Paolino could do no better than an occasional weak left as he stumbled backward. Schmeling, weary for the crazy for the kill, crashed and tore at the Spaniard's steel ribbed chin. Paolino rolled and

GIVES FANS MANY A THRILL

"Rabbit" Maranville, whose fame will live as one of the greatest short-stops of the National League, is one of the most interesting players to watch perform.

His diving stops and uncanny throws from off-balance positions leave always a thrill for fans who look for the spectacular. But in handling inflated files, the Rabbit has a style all his own and it never fails to bring a ripple of amusement from the stands.

When a high one is lofted his way, the Rabbit judges it at a glance, runs to where it will land and forms the copyrighted "basket" with his gloved hand held at arm's length below the waist. When the ball comes down it plops in the glove, retires the batsman and brings the house down.

away, barely able to keep his feet but still walking blind and battered into the German's powerful fire. He even tried to slug it out with Schmeling as they clinched on the ropes but Schmeling drove him into his own corner at the bell.

MILLER WINS BY K.O.

ond place, one small game behind the Pirates, and dropped the Cards into a tie with the Giants, three contests from the top. Young Henry Meiner, considered a daring experiment ten days ago, turned in another winning game for Pittsburgh.

WALKER IN GOOD FORM

Home runs by Leach of the Giants and Southern of the Phillies and a measure of loose Philadelphia pitching featured the John McGraw victory at the Polo Grounds. All of the New York runs were scored with two out. Bill Walker was in good form at all times, except in the fifth, when the Phillies got their three.

Brooklyn rallied to nose out the Boston Braves by 8-5, with "Win" Ballou doing some fine relief pitching.

leading Mission Reds took advantage of Buzz Wetzel's blow-up in the fourth to put across sufficient runs for their third straight victory over the Hollywood Stars yesterday, 4-2. Wetzel blew up after having an argument while at bat in the previous inning, with Fred Hoffman, Mission catcher.

Batteries: Cole and Hoffman; Wetzel and Sypher.

Seattle, June 28.—Stepping out in the first inning for the first marker, again in the second for two more, Sacramento was never pushed here yesterday and scored a 4-1 victory over the Seattle Indians. Dore Camilli, Senator first sacker, poled out a circuit clout in the ninth with no one on. He was only credited with a triple.

Batteries: Ash and Gooch; Heinle and Hargreaves.

San Francisco, June 28.—Although bested by Los Angeles in hits, the San Francisco nine yesterday made their valiant count to undo the Angels, 3-1. The southern team collected seven hits off Mails, while Plitt, in the Angels' box, allowed the Seals only four. The final inning was the game for San Francisco, when the local tie brought both of its runs.

Batteries: Keating and Severeid; Kallio, Lamanski and Cox.

Portland, June 28.—Despite home runs by Daglia and Verges, the latter scoring two other runners, Lee Roy Mahaffey had too much fast ball for the Oaks yesterday, while Portland found Daglia and Hurst easy, and the Ducks won 10-5. The series now stands two games for Oakland to one for Portland.

Batteries: Cole and Hoffman; Wetzel and Sypher.

REALTORS HERE DISCUSS SIGNS

Size of Exempted Bill Boards Under New By-law Comes Under Review

City Solicitor Explains to Real Estate Board Nature of Amendment

Opinions of the members of the Real Estate Board of Victoria in regard to the proposed amendment to the building by-law, requiring permit for signs over a certain size, were sought by H. S. Pringle, city solicitor, at the luncheon of the board to-day.

Mr. Pringle explained the proposed by-law contained no idea of prohibiting signs of any size, but merely provided for the licensing of such and the paying of a $1.00 fee to cover inspection records, etc. The council wished to exempt from this clause small signs used for real estate purposes and wished to secure the view of the board on this point. It had been suggested that all signs with an area of two square feet or less should be exempted.

POWERS OF COUNCIL
The city solicitor pointed out that under provincial legislation the council had the power, if it wished, to prohibit or limit signs on all properties. He further explained that the clause in question did not deal with signs overhanging public streets.

F. B. Pemberton and Harry Leech spoke in favor of large signs for real estate purposes, and it was explained by Mr. Pringle that these were not prohibited provided they were erected in accordance with the zoning by-law and the permit fee paid.

LARGER SIGNS
J. C. Bridgman suggested the limit for exempted signs should be raised to twelve square feet, maintaining that a sign of that size could hardly be a menace to public safety.

The question was referred to the board executive with the suggestion that ideas of members be turned in to the secretary.

A few other items of business were handled. Stewart G. Clark, the chairman, reported on the outing of the board to Sooke Harbor recently. He proposed a return visit to the scene in the near future.

PROPOSED CHANGES
Proposed changes in the Real Estate Agents License Act as suggested by the Vancouver Real Estate Exchange had been discussed by representatives of the Victoria and Vancouver groups.

At least four assistants will aid Miss Fisher in the primary work. The different branches of the work will all be directed by specialists and should give a more complete training than in previous years.

HOTEL KEEPER SUES FOR BILL

Appeals Ruling Against Him in County Court of Vancouver

A judgment of Judge Ellis in the County Court, Vancouver, dismissing the claim of George Poulin, proprietor of the Maple Hotel, Hastings Street, Vancouver, against Paul Lafaje, shingle mill worker for $718.73 for room rent and money loaned to him is appealed in a case proceeding before the B.C. Court of Appeal.
With no original ledger sheets available to be produced before the lower court to show details of plaintiff's claim, Judge ordered a non suit to be entered for defendant and ordered plaintiff to pay costs.
Defendant denied owing the money, and in the alternative said it was for liquor sold by plaintiff to him contrary to the Liquor Control Act and therefore plaintiff had no cause for action.

FLAGGER HEAD COMES TO CITY FROM FLORIDA

William R. Kenan Jr., Making Northwest Tour in His Private Car

Making an extensive tour of the Northwest, William R. Kenan Jr., president of the $400,000,000 Flagler system, comprising the Florida East Coast Hotel, railway companies and affiliated corporations, is due to reach Victoria to-day from the mainland.
Mr. Kenan has been traveling on the coast in his private car "Randiegh." He is accompanied by Mrs. Kenan, his sister, Mrs. J. K. Wise, Mrs. Sarah O. Kenan, and Warren Smith, executive secretary.

Mr. Kenan's hobby is traveling. When he was but twenty-three years of age he circled the globe in connection with the construction of power plants in various countries.

In following his profession of mechanical and electrical engineer he discovered what is now known to the world as "carbide."
Two years ago Mr. Kenan donated the Memorial Stadium at Chapel Hill, University of North Carolina, his alma mater. He is greatly interested in the raising of pure-bred stock and owns the Randiegh stock farm at Lockport, New York, where some world's records have been established for thoroughbred Jersey cattle.

CLEARING OF LANDS DEBATED

Construction Co. Head Says There Was Obligation in U.B.C. Area

Vancouver, June 28—Work done with Government money and by employees of the Province on sections of the University lands under lease to private interests for the purpose of making a public golf course was merely the fulfillment of a moral obligation on the part of the lessors to hand over the 120-acre tract, formerly an original stand of timber, according to John Boyd, president of the General Construction Company, one of the chief builders of the scheme.
In an interview following the publication of charges that Government funds had been used for the development of the golf course, a purely private venture, Mr. Boyd denied any Government money had been paid to his company for the work done.

MANY REGISTER FOR COURSES AT SUMMER SCHOOL

Mr. Kyle was particularly enthusiastic over the prospects of the piano instruction classes. That it was possible to instruct children to play in classes had been proved by Henry McCleary, A.T.C.L., who is taking the course at the local school, the director stated.

Although the drawback of being unable to give individual attention to the pupils in the platoon system was noted, it was shown that the students would work and progress with that of others. This should help to compensate for the lack of personal direction, Mr. Kyle said.

ART OF SINGING
Heber Nasmith, of Pullman State College, Washington, will conduct a course in the art of singing, in which the fundamental principles underlying tone production and correct voice technique leading to song interpretation will be stressed.

This will act as a preparatory course to the Canadian Bureau of Music class, to be held later.

In the applied art classes for second year students, intensive work will be carried out in different branches of the subject.

Particular interest has been taken to give them definite subjects for each week.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

CANADIAN CROP CUT BY NEARLY 200,000,000 BU.

Winnipeg, June 28.—The Canadian figures on reports received show a total of spring wheat of approximately 315,000,000 bushels, against 508,000,000 of spring wheat last year, according to Russell's compilation to-day.

Winnipeg, June 28.—The Wheat Pool report to-day says: "Sixty-one Alberta reports place wheat condition at 75.7, compared with 101 per cent on the same date last year and 94 per cent on June 15 of this year. Sixty-one reports say moisture is needed, 31 of which reports say the crops are actually suffering."

"The south central part of Saskatchewan, representing two-sevenths of the total area of that province, reports condition of wheat as 76 per cent of normal, compared with 80 per cent on the same date last year."

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Leased Wire)

Winnipeg, June 28.—Wheat: The market was very bullish to-day and during the first hour advanced from 8 1/2 to 9 1/2 over the close last night. From this bulge, there was a setback of about one cent, with local taking profits but buying orders developed from Chicago and New York and the market worked back to the high levels of the day and held firm. The cause of the change in sentiment was a crop report issued by the pool, showing present conditions for the three western provinces, being an average of eighty-five, as compared with 101 at this time a year ago.

The pool did not estimate the indicated yield in their report, but a prominent official this morning stated that with ideal conditions from now to harvest, Western Canada would yield 400 million bushels, as compared with 540 million bushels last year. With the usual hot July weather, they could easily be reduced to 375 or even 350 million, as there is no reserve moisture in the country.

There was a small export business done by local exporters overnight, but the pool refused to sell a single bushel. The significant feature in the wheat trade is that buyers have confidence, and the situation in regard to crop conditions no longer appears to have any terrors now that the 1929 crop promise is to be short enough to offset it, given the weather.

July is the critical month for spring wheat on both sides of the line, and with July liquidation easily cared for, our opinion is that prices will work irregularly higher.

Corn: The corn market conditions little changed. The spot basis was steady 1/4 off to 1/4 up with sales of 75,000 bushels, with sales to arrive 160,000 bushels. Weather mostly favorable. The shipping demand was only fair. The crop is late, going into July with a spotted condition.

The cash situation is healthy and stocks on farms may prove to be smaller than supposed, while stocks in sight are smaller also than a year ago. Think the market in a position where it will advance easily with any unfavorable crop news.

Oats: Narrow market. But on the set backs think there will be good support, and with unfavorable crop news the market could be worked out of the rut easily.

Rye: Unfavorable news from some parts of the northwest with the strength in wheat caused a firm tone. Market looks like a purchase on the set backs.

WHITNEY LETTER

By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.

New York, June 28.—Whitney of the Wall Street Financial Service says today:

BUY ANY REACTION

"A very large amount of type of selling which would be induced by a large increase in brokers' loans was absorbed in the course of yesterday's market with remarkably little effect made on prices."

"So much of it was absorbed that I doubt that any loan total which may appear to-day will have other than an hourly effect on prices and, consequently, the advance is continued to use any reaction which may be encountered to-day to buy stocks which are currently recommended. We are practically at the end of the period when preparations have to be made for mid-year disbursements."

"Recommendations made here early this month that 10 per cent money would be recorded for call money has been fulfilled, while the decline in the time continues as does the continuation of gold imports. There is little doubt that the individual technical condition of stocks to worry about and that is little enough."

"Having recaptured the previous industrial average and all average tops, further substantial advance in both groups will be recorded."

"Missouri, Kansas and Texas established a new top for all the year yesterday and has inaugurated an advance which will carry the stock to 87 1/2. As will be learned in a few days, the company has come under the domination of another banking house, the identity which is not far to seek when it is learned that most of the stocks taken out of the market in the past few days is to be found in the treasury of the Allegheny Corp. I know of no railroad issue selling below 60 which offers the profit possibilities which now exist in Missouri, Kansas and Texas."

"The advance in Electric Power and Light has now been sufficient to warrant the recommendation that you start cashing in your profits as the stock advances beyond 75."

"Continue the purchase of Corn Products Refining at any figure below 105, but particularly when it is available below 100 as it was yesterday, and do not dispose of it until a price of at least 130 can be secured."

"Just so long as Bethlehem Steel is obtainable below 110, just so long will the recommendation continue to buy it, and the same can be said for Anaconda while it is available below 120."

"Buy Pullman, particularly when it is obtainable below 87 and have no hesitancy in paying up to 90 for it if it begins to move."

"If you bought American and Foreign Power, as you were advised yesterday, don't part with a share of it until a range of 150-165 is provided."

"In the rail group excellent buying has been witnessed in Chicago and Northwestern. It is buying of such a character that you are advised to follow it, making the commitment within the range of 87-90."

"Expect Seedless Grapes To Arrive In City To-morrow"

Seedless California grapes will arrive on the market to-morrow morning and will be distributed to retail dealers by the wholesale houses of the city. It was stated on wholesale row to-day, that quotations have been issued on the fruit.

Strawberries continued their fluctuating movements going down to 82 per crate on the wholesale stalls. The retail prices showed a corresponding drop, with boxes marked at ten cents each and two for twenty-five cents.

Lemons went up in price, reaching from 77.25 to 82.25 per box.

Dairy produce sales stand firm with no changes in prices, while meat remains at the market with an indication of a rise shortly.

New York, June 28.—National Dairy Products displayed a marked upswing and gained several points over its previous new high. Now that the stock has been able to shake off its inertia, it should move at a more rapid pace than it has hitherto.

The advance has not been large enough to justify a broad profit-taking wave. Minor recessions are, of course, to be expected, but the stock is now well in the hands of those behind it and it is understood that the initial goal for "NPT" is ninety, and if conditions warrant, the stock will go to 100. This will not come over night but the technical position is sufficiently strong to warrant confidence. We advise purchases.

Montgomery Ward has not been mentioned by us for some time. The stock's action during the first five months of this year is in itself an explanation why we were not bullish on Montgomery Ward. The technical position of the stock to-day, owing to the drastic reaction, is better than it has been for some time. There is still a substantial short interest in it which we hope to cover the commitment at still lower levels. They may be right at that, but on July 17 the stock will go ex-rights which are traded on the curb around $14 per share. Some time before the stock goes ex-rights a substantial covering movement should develop which should carry Montgomery Ward to higher levels. We recommend buying Montgomery Ward for a turn.

North American is making new highs every day and is currently selling about thirty points above the levels we recommended it several weeks ago. Many anticipated developments are responsible for the recent rise in North American. Some of them will prove a good source of income to the company, but others are more or less problematic. The most important factor for the advance in North American can be found in the general strength in all utilities. The dividend policy of the company kindled the imagination of many who are figuring that they receive ten per cent on their

INDUSTRIAL SOAP AGENTS TO NEW HIGH: MARKET PASSES BY INCREASE IN LOANS

(Over B.C. Bond Leased N.Y. Wires)

New York, June 28.—Industrial averages to-day again soared to a new all-time record high.

At the close of the market the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks stood at 331.65, up 2.74 points for the new and a new record high, and for 20 rails at 161.01, off .14 points.

The utilities again soared with a long list of such issues, making high records to-day.

Among the stocks to make new records to-day were Electric Power and Light, International Telephone and Telegraph, Consolidated Gas, Engineers Public Service, Columbia Gas, General Electric, National Power and Light, American Power and Light, North American, Westinghouse Electric, Mathieson Alkali, American Refining, Union Pacific, Teac Pro Chemicals, Erie, Missouri, Kansas and Texas.

Money held at 10 per cent all day.

Sales totaled 3,945,600 shares.

HUDSON LOOKS INTERESTING

New York, June 28.—Hudson Motors brokers say the stock has broken out of what has seemed to be a resistance area and is entitled to extend its gains. The company is reported to be coming out next month with a smaller model car. A stock dividend is reported to be in the way.

MELON COMING FOR N.Y. CENTRAL

New York, June 28.—The excellent showing of New York Central for May has served to increase market interest in the stock and rumors are current that it is paying the way for an increase in the present 88 dividend rate, and it is further rumored that additional stock may be offered, giving valuable rights to stockholders. The Herald-Tribune says.

NEW SHORTLY

New York, June 28.—The market showed absolute indifference to the increase in brokers' loans. It was pointed out that whereas it had been feared that there would be a decrease in the amount of funds loaned in the market by individuals and corporate lenders, this account actually increased during the past week and that the stabilizing factor rather than the reverse.

Call money was 10 per cent all day, but it was not a factor in the market, which displayed indifference to the increase in brokers' loans. It was pointed out that whereas it had been feared that there would be a decrease in the amount of funds loaned in the market by individuals and corporate lenders, this account actually increased during the past week and that the stabilizing factor rather than the reverse.

But she checked her thoughts with horror of herself. "I love him well enough to hope there is not an atom of truth behind that terrible letter," he heart cried. "But—if he goes blindly on at the trial to-day, will the black-maller make good his threat? There are ways of getting his highly interesting information into the court record—if necessary—oh, I don't know what to do!"

Her fingers upon the clasp of her handbag when the door opened and John Curtis Morgan hurried into the room, smiling with confident cheerfulness.

"Hello, junior partner!" he greeted her affectionately. "Going to be a great day to-day! Caught that Fleming woman just as she was skipping town last night. But it's in the paper—say, where's that memorandum of McTeague? I couldn't find it in my briefcase last night!"

CHAPTER V

Nan took his brief case from John Curtis Morgan, rifled through a sheaf of memoranda and found—as she had known she would—the McTeague deposition. How helpless he was, how dependent upon her! And how happy she was to serve him. Would his next secretary be as alert and intelligent as herself, as eager to wait upon him? He loathed detail, wanted to have his mind free for concentration upon the bigger aspects of the legal problems which he was called upon to handle. And yet incompetence in those who are responsible for detail made him nervous and impatient, even ill. It took a lot of understanding and patience and intelligence to work for John Curtis Morgan.

"If his next secretary serves him as faithfully as I have done, it will be because she loves him," Nan decided, and hot jealousy of her prospective successor flooded her already tortured heart. Nan followed him into his private office, the anonymous letter tucked into the pocket of her blouse, the other mail, or such of it as required his personal attention, in her hands. He lifted a warning hand, his black eyes pleading with her humorously for indulgence. "Haven't time to read a single letter, Nan. You handle all of it if you can, and let the rest ride. Nothing of life-and-death importance, I suppose."

Nan decided irrevocably then. The anonymous letter should stay in her pocket. She had her orders—"No, Mr. Morgan, nothing of life-and-death importance. Anything special you want me to do to-day?" "Nothing special," Morgan answered absent-mindedly, his eyes on the memoranda in his hand. "Oh, yes! When the complete transcript of this Grace Cox case comes from the court stenographer this morning, I'd like to have you read through it carefully. I can depend upon you to light when apparently all is dark. I'm pretty sure of making Brainerd look like a fool before the day is over, but I'm not taking any chances. That's a slippery crowd. I'll phone during the morning if I have an opportunity, and will come back here when court recesses for lunch."

"I'll order a nice lunch sent up from Bellaire Grill, and you can eat it while you go over your notes," Nan planned cheerfully.

Of course she had had no opportunity to resign, she scolded her conscience, when Morgan had departed for court. "Besides," she reminded herself, "I've decided to write him a note of resignation, but I'm certainly not going to bother him with it until this case is settled. It ought to go to the jury by Friday night, and Saturday morning will be his high noon. Maybe if he finds out I held out this anonymous letter he'll fire me and save me the trouble of resigning."

She tried to forget the blackmailing letter, with its unspeakable insinuation against Iris Morgan, but her mind tugged and worried at the thing, while her heart followed John Curtis Morgan to the courthouse.

Evans, the middle-aged, sour-mouthed clerk, arrived just as Morgan was leaving, and Blake, the young lawyer on salary, raced in and out again in time to catch his chief at the elevator.

If only she could go with him, could be there to ward off evil—If she, not that silly Blake, sat at his elbow, she could sense a trap before it was sprung, warn him, save him, the ghastly humiliation which, if the anonymous letter-writer was to be believed, awaited him at the courthouse to-day. He had told her often enough that he counted on her intuition.

A messenger boy with the court stenographer's transcript of the case interrupted Nan's mulling thoughts. She seized upon the bulky manuscript, fiercely determined to winnow the prosecution's evidence so thoroughly that no clue to the real truth, however infinitesimal, might escape her.

The clue, when she did find it, almost escaped her. It was so tiny: just a name, an odd name, and for some obscure reason familiar to Nan. The name occurred in the testimony of a chambermaid of the Riverside Country Club.

Q. (District Attorney)—How long have you been employed as a chambermaid in the Riverside Country Club? A.—Since September 5. Annie Crayfish recommended me for the job when she was leaving, sir—

Q. (District Attorney)—Please confine yourself to answering questions. Now, Bertha, what were your hours on duty? Nan knitted her brows. Crayfish! Why was the name so familiar? She herself had written that name, had laughed at it—Oh, Of course! The head cleaning woman of that very office building was named Crayfish! Nan had learned her name at Christmas time last year, had written it on the envelope containing Morgan's Christmas gift of money for the woman. Undoubtedly Annie Crayfish, former chambermaid of the Country Club, was related to old Mrs. Crayfish of the Sanderson Building.

Impulsively, her brown eyes shining, Nan called the superintendent of the building upon the telephone. "This is Miss Carroll, of John Curtis Morgan's office, Mr. Bennett. I very much want to see Mrs. Crayfish, head of the cleaning staff. Is she on duty now?"

"Not until 4 o'clock. The old dame works until 10, you know," Bennett answered.

"Could you give me her address, please, Mr. Bennett? It's terribly important, really, or I shouldn't bother you," Nan pleaded in her sweetest voice.

Five minutes later, Nan, having left a resentful and bewildered clerk in charge of the front office, was on her way to the address which Bennett had supplied. Mrs. Crayfish had no telephone; there was no time to be wasted on telegrams or messenger boys. She was playing a long hunch, at the risk of incurring Morgan's displeasure for having deserted the office, but her eyes were still shining with excitement when she knocked upon the door of a small frame house on the outskirts of the city.

"I want to see Mrs. Crayfish, please," Nan told the plump, homely woman who answered her knock. "Mama ain't home. Could I do anything for you, Miss? I'm Annie Crayfish—"

"Annie Crayfish?" Nan almost sang the unusual syllables. "Then you're the very person I want to see. You used to work at the Riverside Country Club as a chambermaid, didn't you, Annie? Will you tell me why you left your job?"

"Yes, Miss. I been out to Arizona, staying with my sister who was sick with T. B. She—she died last week, and I buried her out there and come home. I just got home to-day. Me and Mama are feeling awful bad about Madge, Miss, so I hope there ain't going to be no trouble."

"I'm awfully sorry about Madge," Nan said softly. "But it was awfully nice you had saved up enough money to go away out there and stay with her until the end."

"I didn't have enough saved up," Annie Crayfish confessed. "I never coulda gone if Mrs. Fleming hadn't sent me. It was funny, too," she added in a burst of confidence. "I didn't know she was so kind hearted. And I didn't think she liked me very much. One time she scolded me something fierce."

NEW LABOR PARTY PLAN IN BRITAIN

London, June 23.—In deciding to appoint a committee of twelve members to maintain contact between the Labor Cabinet and the Party as a whole, the Parliamentary Labor Party yesterday made a far-reaching decision.

This committee will be chosen by ballot and it may naturally be taken for granted that the "left" wing of the party will secure strong representation on it. In this they will seek to act as a sort of ginger group, to make constant assessments of cabinet policy.

Both sections of the opposition, Conservatives and Liberals, are watching the outcome of this action with the utmost interest.

NEW TELEVISION FOR AEROPLANES

Washington, June 23.—Flight tests soon to be made of television apparatus calculated by its inventor, C. Francis Jenkins, Washington physicist, to reproduce conditions as seen from an aeroplane, on a screen miles away. Moving panoramas of countryside in war-time instantaneous recording at headquarters of observations made by planes back of the enemy lines—such broadcast by the "aerial television eye," soon to be a scientific reality, he says.

Successful experiments with the new process have already been conducted with ground models from a fixed base, he announced, and a Stinson junior cabin monoplane has been specially constructed for practical test purposes.

Drought Threatens Crops in England

London, June 23. (Canadian Press Cable)—An official weather report states the past few months have been the driest recorded in England and the drought covers all England and is due partly to lack of moisture during the winter. Water engineers everywhere are anxious as to the adequacy of their supplies. Shipley, Yorkshire, although severely rationing water, has been forced to buy water from Bradford.

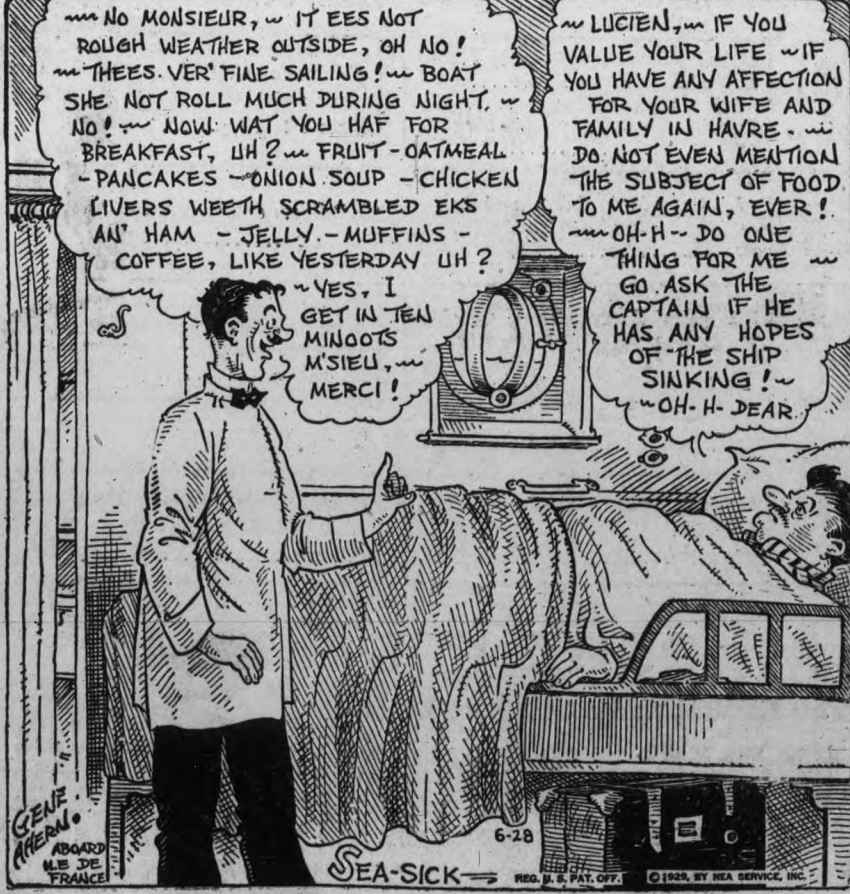

ALSATIAN AMNESTY

Paris, June 23.—The French Government has proclaimed a general amnesty for Alsace and Lorraine, hoping to gain the restoration of permanent peace between the autonomists and the Government. The bill has yet to be ratified by Parliament.

DEATH SENTENCES GIVEN IN RUSSIA

Moscow, June 23.—Death sentences in the Soviet Union, which had considerably decreased lately, took a sudden jump yesterday.

The Moscow circuit court sentenced to death before a firing squad Soviet Judge Pashkov of the state of Tver and the bandit Sokolov. The prosecutor had shown the judge had closely cooperated with the bandits in supplying arms and giving judicial protection to the marauders.

The Uzbekistan supreme court sentenced to similar deaths four bandits who, operating under the leadership of Fuxalik Maksima, had hanged several women for not wearing the veil of Moslem custom, which had been abolished by the Soviet.

From Minsk came the report that a death sentence had been passed on Koney Pinchok for killing a village newspaper correspondent named Sanko. Protopetrov reported a death sentence imposed on a village bourgeois there for a similar offence.

Lamb Objects to British Anthem

An Englishwoman had a pet lamb which grew to be a great favorite. It was very sensitive. Soon she noticed that if it was scolded it would shrink and look extremely dejected, while, if she petted and praised it, it would roll over and over with pleased excitement, and even stand on its head, a trick it had somehow learned. It liked music, but wanted the tune Future Actor Set Out on Career in Washub.

Otis Skinner's big brother Charlie and his big brother Charlie's friends loved to give plays in the big cellar kitchen of the Skinner home. They made up wonderful dramas and acted them out before an audience of neighborhood boys and girls, who had to pay pins for seats at the show. Otis was one of those who had to pay pins. He was told that he was much too young to be an actor, though he begged and begged to be given even a small part.

Finally, growing tired of the lad's always being at his heels, big brother Charlie agreed that Otis should have a part in a play. He was given the role of a shipwrecked sailor.

He didn't have to say anything in the part. All he had to do was to sit in a washub, which was supposed to be a lifeboat, tossed on the sea. While he sat in the tub and looked worried, the "use hands" waved a big gray shawl up and down, to make believe that there were big waves about to swamp the little boat of the shipwrecked sailor.

It wasn't much of a part, to be sure, but Otis was blistfully happy. At last he was in a play.

Otis Skinner, born on June 28, 1858, in Cambridge, Massachusetts, became a famous and well-loved actor. (Copyright, 1929, by Republic Syndicate, Inc.)

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Cat Bird

(Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"Mew! Mew!" cried the pussy cat. "Bow! Wow!" barked the dog.

"Dear me!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "More trouble next door! My! My! Why does that dog always want to chase the poor cat?"

For that is what had happened. Near Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow on one side lived a pussy cat. On the other side of the bungalow, a few houses away, lived a lively dog. No, it was neither Jackie nor Peetle Bow Wow, though when the dog barked, as he often did, at the pussy cat, he sounded just like the name of those two little puppies about whom I have told you some stories. You know—Jackie and Peetle Bow Wow.

As for the pussy cat, she was real cute and never gave any trouble. She would purr when you stroked her back or rubbed her ears, and she would mew when she was hungry and wanted a drink of milk. But she would mew much louder when the dog chased her, which he did every time he got a chance.

Mrs. Wibblywobble quacked.

This pussy cat used to come out on her back steps. She would switch her tail in the sunshine, then she would stretch out one leg after the other and nest she would mew softly.

And if the dog, who was asleep near his kennel on the other side of Uncle Wiggily's bungalow, heard the mewling of the pussy cat, that dog would awaken suddenly, jump to his feet and growl!

"Hah! A cat! I must chase her up a tree!"

With that the dog would jump over his fence into Uncle Wiggily's yard, jump the next two or three fences until he was in the yard of the house where the pussy cat lived. And then—

"Dear me! What sad things would happen!"

With a woof and a growl and a bark the dog would rush at the poor pussy cat sitting in the sun on her steps. And as soon as she saw and heard that dog coming the pussy cat would push up her back in the middle like a funny little Chinese bridge, her tail would swell up as large as a Bologna sausage and she would open her mouth and hiss.

Then if the dog still dashed at her, which he almost always did, the pussy cat would run up a tree and stay there until the dog grew tired of waiting around and barking.

"It's a good thing for us cats that dogs can't climb trees!" the poor pussy would say to herself.

Well, this morning I am telling you about Uncle Wiggily heard the mewling of the dog, and then he heard the scratching of the dog's new nails as he jumped the fence. He heard the hissing of the pussy and the scratching of her claws as she climbed the

To-morrow's Horoscope

SATURDAY, JUNE 29, 1929

Until late to-day the planetary government is rather uncertain for those who dwell on the earth, astrologers announce. It is a day for rest and relaxation. Farmers may be disturbed by conditions that affect their crops, but the stars assure them that they are to benefit before the new year.

Some sort of unfortunate real estate boom is forecast and caution is advised for those who invest in lands. Much healthy activity in lands is forecast for certain southern and southwestern states.

Refugees from crowded cities are to move to western farms, it is foretold, and next summer will develop many interesting phases in the history of population.

Again the stars smile on brides and bridegrooms, who are to have the auspicious of longpines and long lives. Although this is a lucky wedding day, warning is given to avoid sharing the home with older persons.

Under this rule there may be circulation of rumors and gossip tending to undermine confidence in men who wield financial and other power.

This is not a favorable day for nervous persons who may suffer exceedingly while the configuration prevails. Warning is given that the mind should be disciplined so that destructive or discouraged thoughts may be shut out.

Late to-day lawyers, educators and leaders in many lines of thought and action should benefit greatly.

Stress on reforms that mean new prosperity and safety to the people is indicated for this month when public opinion is likely to crystallize.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the sunny of an increase of income or other financial good luck in the coming year. Children born on this day probably will be clever in many ways. The subjects of this sign, Leo, usually are extremely gifted and able to win success.

Rubens, the great painter, was born on this day of the month, 1577. Others who have had this as a birthday are Senator William E. Borah, 1856; Celia Thaxter, poet, 1836; and Etienne Prosper Berne Belle-Cour, artist, 1838.

tree to get away from the dog. No wonder the rabbit said:

"More trouble next door!"

Then Uncle Wiggily went out in his yard and called to the dog:

"Why do you always chase that poor cat?"

"Oh, I just can't help it!" barked the dog. "I don't want to bite her. I just like to chase her to see her run up a tree."

"Well, I wish you'd stop!" mewled the pussy, now up in the branches. "And I'd just like to see you try to bite me! I'd scratch your nose good for you! Mew! Mew! Mew!"

"Gur-r-r-r!" growled the dog, as he jumped back to his own yard.

"Can't you do something to help the Uncle Wiggily?" asked the pussy as she climbed down out of the tree.

"I'm tired of being chased by that dog every time I come out on my steps. Can't you make him stop?"

Uncle Wiggily twiggled his ears and twiggled his pink nose. Then, all of a sudden, up in the top of the tree, he heard:

"Mew! Mew! Mew!"

"Why, there's another cat up there!" cried the pussy. "That dog must have chased her up there before he chased me. Listen!"

"That's a cat bird, but not a cat," said the rabbit to the pussy who had been chased by the dog. "It is a jolly cat bird and now I think I know a way to teach that dog a lesson and make him stop chasing you. Come on down, Cat Bird!"

"Mew! Mew! Mew!" called the slate colored bird as down he flew.

"Don't be afraid of this pussy," said Uncle Wiggily. "I want you to do her a favor and teach that silly dog a lesson."

"All right," sang the Cat Bird. And what happened next you shall read in the story after this. It will be called Uncle Wiggily's dog surprise. And I would take it as a favor if you could make the short hand on the clock stop chasing the long hand.

INVITE BRITISH CABINET GROUP TO ANNUAL MEET

Delegation From Houses of Parliament Asked to Attend Convention

Montreal, June 28.—Invitations have been issued by the national executive of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to the British Parliamentary Association to send a delegation of members of both the House of Commons and the House of Lords to the fourth annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, to be held at Edmonton and Calgary in September.

Sir William Clark, British High Commissioner in Canada, has cabled to Baron Passfield, formerly Rt. Hon. Sidney Webb, Secretary of State for the Colonies, asking the Minister to urge members of both Houses to accept the invitation, which includes a trip to the Peace River country, the Arrowhead, and the Kootenay district.

These announcements were made by W. M. Clarke, secretary of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. He stated that W. M. Birks, president of the Chamber, had given invitations also to chambers of commerce in Great Britain during his trip overseas last May. The following chambers of commerce in Great Britain have accepted the invitation: London, which will be represented by P. W. Parsons, member of the executive, Birmingham, by John Bellis; Manchester and Liverpool, the two last named chambers of commerce having been appointed delegates.

The British visitors will travel with the eastern delegation to the convention in Alberta. They will return over Canadian Pacific lines. Stop-overs will be made in all large cities, where excursions and functions have been arranged in honor of the visitors.

The party will leave Edmonton on September 5 for the Peace River country, where the party will go on the Canadian Pacific line, where the party will be made direct to Montreal, whence the British delegates will sail for home.

Mr. Clarke announced ninety reservations from eastern Canada and sixty from the west had already been received, apart from the British delegations.
